WRIGHTS GET THEIR MEDALS

Receive Them in East Room of White House,

AT THE HANDS OF THE PRESIDENT

The Two Brothers Voice Their Thanks to Taft.

After It Is All Over, They Breathe a Sigh of Relief and Had They Been Allowed To Do So Would Have Been Glad, Doubtless, To Have Escaped from the Reception Room and the Gathering.

Washington, June 10.—Orville and Wilbur Wright, the American kings of the air, received from the hands of President Taft this afternoon the magnificent gold medals voted them by the Aero Club of America for their achievements in aviation.

The presentation took place in the beautiful East room of the White house, and was witnessed by a throng of distinguished scientists, diplomats, officials and military men and their ladies that crowded the great apartment to its doors.

With a diffidence manifested by downcast eyes and hesitating, almost inaudible speech, the brothers accepted the medals from the president and voiced their thanks. After it was all over, they breathed a sigh of relief, and had they been allowed to do so, would have escaped from the reception committee, and fled from the crowd. But there was more handshaking to be undergone and more laudatory speeches to be heard before they could board their train for Dayton.

Today's official recognition by the United States of the value of the Wright brothers' achievements was a trifle tardy. Already they had been feted and ovated, lionized and banquetted abroad.

Original Plan Fails.

President Roosevelt, who originally suggested that the medal presentation take place at the White House, expected to hand them the golden tokens himself last winter. But the protracted stay of the Wrights in Europe disarranged the plans and gave our cousins in the old world the opportunity of first patting them on the back

Standing near Orville and Wilbur Wright, when President Taft gave them the medals, was their sister, Miss Katherine, who has been their constant companion here and abroad for many months. She it was who nursed Orville back to health and strength after the fall of the aeroplane at Fort Myer last September, when Lieutenant Seltridge was dashed to death, and she it was who has cheered the workshop and field from the beginning of their experiments to the present day. The happiness on her face today plainly enough showed that she realized their triumph and enjoyed it to the full.

Herbert W. Parsons, the New York congressman, introduced the Wrights to President Taft with a brief speech recounting their achievements. At the conclusion of his remarks, President Taft stepped forward, handed them the medals and told them how well pleased he was to perform the office.

The Two Medals.

The two medals, which are identical in design, were the work of artist V. D. Brenners. One side is blank with the exception of a small representation of the Wright aeroplane in flight at the top, and a minature reproduction of the Aero club's seal at the bottom. On the other side, beneath the words "Aero Club of America" are overlapping profile portraits of the two brothers with the inscriptions: "W. Wright, September 21, 1908, Le Mans, France and O. Wright, September 9, 1908, Fort Myer, Virginia, U. S. A."

These refer to the two world-breaking records made by the two brothers when Wilbur flew sixty-one miles in one hour, thirty-one minutes, fifty-one seconds, and Orville remained in the air, one hour, two minutes and fifteen seconds, distance unrecorded. The medals cost $2,000.

The presentation was only one incident of a strenuous day for the Wrights. They reached town at 8:40 a. m., were met at the station by a committee from the Aero club and Cosmos club; were taken to the Cosmos club for breakfast. Miss Wright went to the home of Mrs. C. J Bell, wife of the treasurer of the Washington Aero club. At 12:30 there was a luncheon at the Cosmos club to which 150 distinguished scientists and men of affairs had been invited, and then there was a reception. General Robert Shaw Oliver, assistant secretary of war, was at the head of the receiving line, and was assisted by William A. De Caindry, vice president of the Cosmos club.

After that the Wrights were taken to the White House. They will return to Dayton tonight to prepare their machine for the final government tests at Fort Myer, which will take place the latter part of the month.

Plain Americans.

Washington, June 10.—Three plain Americans, two men and a young woman—stepped off a western train at the union station here this morning, carrying their own baggage, and were unostentatiously mingling with the other train arrivals, when set upon by an enthusiastic crowd eager to shake their hands, and shout a welcome.

The three Americans—plain and proud of it, despite hobnobbing with royalty abroad—were Wilbur and Orville Wright, and their sister, Miss Katherine. After their greeting by two score or more prominent men, the brothers reluctantly posed for the newspaper camera men and were then whisked off in automobiles for breakfast at the Cosmos club, to be followed by a luncheon and reception and later by the medal presentation at the White House.

Major George O. Squier, of the United States signal corps, was the first man to reach the aviators and showered congratulations and good wishes on Orville Wright, with whom he was intimately associated during the Wright aeroplane trials last fall at Fort Myer.

Walks with a Limp.

Orville was dressed in a grey suit, black derby hat and tan shoes He walks with a hardly perceptible limp as a result of the accident at Fort Myer last fall, when Lieutenant Selfridge of the signal corps lost his life, and Orville himself suffered a broken thigh. Wilbur, tall and sinewy, wore a tan suit, black derby and dark shoes.

Sky pilots were prominent in the reception committee. There was A. Holland Forbes, just returned from the Indianapolis balloon races; Lieutenant Lahm of the signal corps, most of the membership of the Aero Club of Washington, and representatives of the Aero Club of America. The designer of the medals, Victor David Brenners, was also present.

Harry Ormon, a local inventor, who has just finished a 224-pound aeroplane, was introduced to Orville Wright and the Dayton man promised him an audience today if possible, to give him the benefit of his experience in air navigation.

Face the Cameras.

Still carrying their valises, the two brothers passed through the station, facing a battery of cameras. Miss Wright had been immediately whisked off in an automobile to the country home of Mrs. Charles J. Bell, where she will have luncheon

At every step the crowd following the two men grew. Very few people had difficulty in recognizing Orville, but Wilbur was a puzzle. A Holland Forbes was generally mistaken for him, and seemed pleased. Wilbur appeared equally glad to escape the attentions of the throng The two brothers finally consented to pose. They then boarded automobiles, the reception committee following.

Both brothers declared they felt fine, and won'd return to Washington probably on the 20th for the final aeroplane trials of the war department.

A TOLEDO WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Becomes Despondent Over the Death of Her Brother.

Toledo, O., June 10.—Through a belated coroner's inquest held yesterday, the suicide of Mrs. Jane Clark-Proctor, aged sixty-nine, was brought to light.

Mrs. Jones, despondent over the recent suicide of her brother, Edward Proctor, the millionaire Cincinnati soap manufacturer, swallowed a portion of the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid May 28. She lived until Tuesday, after having been unconscious most of the time.

Mrs. Jones was left alone in the house and swallowed three teaspoonfuls of acid. The daughter found her unconscious.

The requirements of the law was not reported to Coroner Henzler until yesterday and last night the body was taken to Cincinnati for burial.

Judgment Returned.

Paris, June 10.—M. Schmidt, who sued the Prince De Sagan, husband of the former Anna Gould, for money which he declared was borrowed by him, will get his money. A judgment for $9,000 and costs has been returned against the prince.

LIKE ONE WHO FALLS ASLEEP

Dr. Edward Everett Hale Dies This Morning.

IS NO STRUGGLE AT DISSOLUTION

Dr. Hale Is Ailing for Last Two Weeks.

Heart Trouble Is Cause of Death, Which Comes While Relatives and Personal Friends Are at His Bedside—Chaplain of the Senate and the Author of "The Man Without a Country."

Boston, June 10.—Rev Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States senate, died this morning at 3 o'clock at his home in the Roxbury district of Boston He had been out and was out as usual up to within a few days, and spoke at the Unitarian anniversary week meetings two weeks ago.

Heart failure was the cause of Dr. Hale's death. He had been ailing for the last two or three weeks and declined gradually until two or three days ago when tears really began to be entertained. The end came suddenly this morning.

Dr. Hale's sister, Miss Susan Hale, his physician, Dr. Temple, and a number of personal friends were at the bedside when the venerable chaplain of the senate breathed his last.

The end came peacefully and there was no struggle at dissolution, Dr. Hale simply passing as one who falls asleep.

Eighty-Seven Years.

Edward Everett Hale was born in Boston April 3, 1822, and was one of the group of litterateurs, preachers and teachers that have made that city famous. He graduated from Harvard seventy years ago. Dartmouth and Williams conferred honorary degrees upon him in 1901 and 1904, respectively.

Hale joined the Unitarian ministry in 1846, his first church being the Church of the Unity, in Worcester, Massachusetts He was married to Emil Baldwin Perkins in 1852.

The writings of Hale cover a wide range He wrote several volumes of children's stories and stories for young men.

"The Man Without a Country," "In His Name," and "Ingraham Papers," are among his best known works.

Hale was prominent at one time in the Chautauquan movement and "Lend a Hand Clubs" and was editor of the Lend a Hand Record. He was also connected in an editorial capacity with numerous publications.

Message of Sympathy.

Washington, June 10.—President Taft sent a message of sympathy to the widow of the late Dr. Edward Everett Hale at Roxbury, Massachusetts, immediately upon learning of the death of the distinguished preacher.

10,000 VETERANS OF CONFEDERACY

March in the Parade at Memphis Today.

Memphis, Tenn., June 10.—With a parade in which no less than 10,000 veterans of the confederacy, their sponsors and maids of honor marched, the annual encampment of the United Confederate Veterans came to a close today.

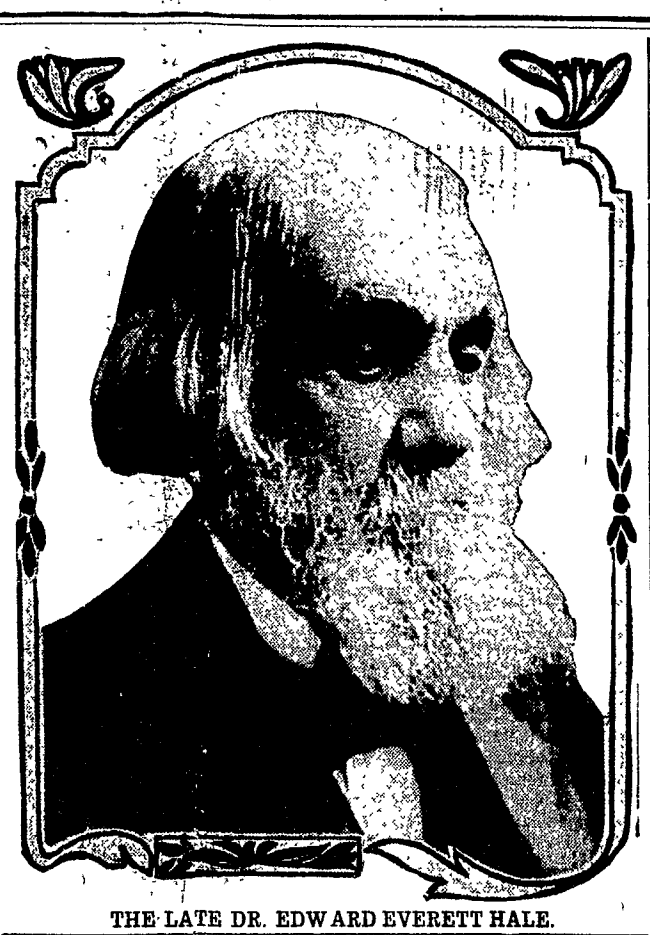
The parade took place in sweltering heat but the aged veterans in the main were able to remain in line, although a goodly number were overcome by heat and fatigue and had to drop out. The parade was viewed by General Fred Grant, son of U. S. Grant, who with a party of distinguished friends is in this city.

The business sessions of the reunion came to a close late Wednesday afternoon, when after a hard fight Mobile, Alahama, secured the 1910 convention.

After requesting that his name be not presented, General C. A. Evans was reelected commander-in-chief against Lieutenant General W. L. Cabell.

Her Fourth Attempt.

Cincinnati, June 10.—Nettie Stephens, thirty-nine, nurse, was rescued from the Ohio river on the Covington, Kentucky, side late Wednesday by James Edwards, a boatman, when the woman plunged into the waters in an effort to end her life. It was her fourth attempt in forty-eight hours.



THE LATE DR. EDWARD EVERETT HALE.

ENORMOUS LOSS OF LIFE FEARED

As Result of Earthquake and Tidal Wave.

LOSS IN PADANG HELD TRIFLING

Although Some 230 Lives Are Lost There.

The Heavy Life Loss Is in the Other Islands of the Group—Dutch Government Has Sent Instructions to Its Officials in the Dutch East Indies To Make a Thorough Investigation and Report.

The Hague, June 10.—The government is fearful today that there has been enormous loss of life in upper Padang and other islands of the Malay archipelago as a result of last Thursday's earthquake and tidal wave Yesterday's despatches from Sumatra said that at least 230 had been killed in upper Padang, but private messages received today indicate that the loss there was trifling compared with the havoc wrought in other islands of the group.

Owing to the lack of adequate means of communication, it may be several days before the extent of the damage is learned The government has sent instructions to its officials in the Dutch East Indies to make a thorough investigation as quickly as possible.

SPANISH LINER IS FAST ASHORE

Goes Hard on the Sands of Fire Island,

WHILE THE TIDE IS RUNNING HIGH

309 Passengers Are Taken Off in Life Boat.

To Them the Night Is One of Horror—Refuse To Credit the Story of the Officers That They Are Not in Any Danger—Task of Getting the Liner Off Promises To Be a Mighty One.

Fire Island, N. Y., June 10.—Three hundred and nine passengers on the big Spanish liner, Antonio Lopez, were taken from that ship in the power life boat of the life-saving crew at Quogue during the morning hours, today, and landed on the Chapman wrecking steamer, Relief

They were a terribly frightened, hysterical crowd as they gathered on the decks of the Relief, and it required almost violence to control some of them, their nerves having been wrecked by their experiences throughout last night when the Lopez hung on the sands off Fire Island, shivering time and again as she was driven further and further on the sandy shore by giant seas that broke over the steamer.

While the passengers were in no real danger they did not know this, and all efforts on the part of Captain Min and his crew to reassure the frightened men and women failed utterly. In fact, there were a number of times when it became necessary to forcibly restrain some of the women passengers from jumping into the seething waters which swirled about the vessel, and finally all passengers were driven into the main saloon and the doors locked on them. There they remained excitedly screaming and praying while the crew on deck was endeavoring to get into communication with the shore.

Resting Easily on Sand.

As the morning dawned and the life-savers managed to get a line across to the steamer, it was found that the Lopez was resting easily on the sand, but that she was very hard on the bottom, and there was every indication that most of her cargo would have to be removed before she could be floated

The New York agents of the line held a conference with the life-savers and were advised to remove the passengers Most of the latter were unnerved by their experience and there was also a chance that bad weather might set in which would make the position of the Lopez dangerous.

The commander of the Mohawk was reached by wireless, and he announced that he would sail at once for the stranded steamer and advised that in the meantime the passengers be removed to the wrecking tugs, which was done.

While the liner was in no particular danger, it is feared that refloating her will be a tremendous task. Last night's surf was one of the strongest that has swept the Long island coast for months, and the Spanish steamer struck three hours before high tide. During the night she was driven hard upon the sands.

If the weather quiets down this afternoon an attempt will be made to lighter her cargo, but if the present heavy sea continues it will simply be dumped overboard in the effort to lighten the steamer. She has swung around almost parallel to Fire island and has a very pronounced list to starboard.

A Terrible Night.

New York, June 10.—After a night of terror 444 persons on board the Spanish passenger liner Antonio Lopez from Cadiz are in communication with the shore this morning.

The big liner was stranded last night on a sand reef near Point O'Woods on the south coast of Long island and all efforts to send a line to her last night or to even get her name were fruitless because of the high surf.

Early today, Ed Baker, twenty-two son of the keeper of the Point O'Woods life-saving station, reached her in a small boat, and quieted the fears of the passengers, who had spent the night on the decks in a freezing wind and cold rain.

Later the Merrritt and Chapman wrecking company succeeded in getting a small line aboard the stranded steamer and a larger line is now being hauled to the vessel.

The possibility of landing the passengers is very remote because of the dangerous character of the surf at that point.

No Immediate Danger.

The vessel will have to be towed off her perilous resting place. As there are no rocks near, it is not thought that she is in immediate danger. The vessel is a large iron steamer of 3,591 tons, commanded by Captain Mir. She has sixty-seven first cabin, thirty-nine second cabin and 203 steerage passengers, besides a crew of 135.

The vessel went ashore shortly after 8 o'clock last night in a driving rain and heavy fog. It is thought that Captain Mir mistook the Fire Island light for the Ambrose channel light.

The life-savers on Point O'Woods and Fire Island heard the blowing of repeated blasts of her fog horns and, later rocket after rocket was sent up as signals for help.

Keeper Baker of the point O'Woods life-saving station is in Washington and his son is in charge of the crew. He and his men made repeated efforts all night to land a line or to get to the stranded vessel but the surf beat back the boat as often as it was launched and the wind hurled back the life coil as often as it was shot toward the vessel.

Small Line Landed.

Shortly after sunrise young Baker and a crew got to the side of the vessel and landed a small line. Later the tugs of the wrecking company arrived and got lines to the vessel.

Some of the passengers remained on deck all night, despite the assurances of the captain and crew that they were in no danger.

When the ship first struck the sand, there was a panic among the women passengers in the steerage and it was with difficulty that some were restrained from throwing themselves into the sea.

The life-savers on shore could see the passengers rushing about the decks and making frantic efforts to shout to land for help.

Some wanted to go on shore when Baker and his crew reached the vessel this morning. The surf was too high and it was deemed impossible but actual communication with the shore had the effect of quelling the panicky feeling.

It is stated at the offices of the steamship company that there is absolutely no danger and that the vessel will probably be pulled off the sand at high tide—about 12:30 o'clock.

SEVERAL WOUNDED AND ONE MAY DIE

As Result of a Riot in the Windy City Today.

Chicago, June 10.—A riot between a gang of supposed striking seamen and their sympathizers and the crew of the coal barge, Tyrone, early today resulted in the wounding of several men, one of whom may die. Captain Neal says he and his crew of eight non-union men were attacked by twenty-five men who climbed over the sides of the boat. Then a battle followed in which clubs and lumps of coal were used as weapons

Charles Walters, a deck hand of Detroit, received a wound in the head that may cause his death. Peter Smith, of Cleveland, was rendered unconscious by a blow on the head. John Carson of St. Clair, Michigan, was also badly hurt.

The attacking party fled when the police appeared.

SEEKS LEGAL SEPARATION

Case of Mrs. Catherine Clemmons Gould Called

BEFORE SUPREME JUSTICE DOWLING

Simple Action for Maintenance and Separation.

Mrs. Gould Does Not Believe in Divorce—Cruelty and Abandonment Are the Grounds Named. Tells of the Happy Life Led by the Two Previous to the Time Gould Became Alleged Libertine.

New York, June 10.—The separation suit of Catherine Clemmons Gould against her husband, Howard Gould, went on trial today before Supreme Court Justice Dowling. Mrs. Gould was on hand early, accompanied by her attorney, Clarence J. Shearn, but the defendant did not put in an appearance until almost noon, as he had not expected the case would be reached.

Mrs. Gould was gowned magnificently, her costume being selected with a view to accentuating the strong parts of her figure. She wore a black satin princess gown which she filled as though she had been melted and poured into it. The gown was richly brocaded with black silk and one of the court attendants declared that he had counted the buttons on it and they numbered 500. She wore an immense black turban hat with two large black aigrettes and a black lace veil draped on it. A magnificent pearl necklace was the only jewelry apparent. She carried a hand bag filled with letters which she studied in a bored manner as she awaited the arrival of her husband.

Shearn carried a big grip filled with affidavits which he will introduce during the trial. There are about 100 of them, the entire world having been ransacked for evidence to refute the allegations made by the husband

Alleges Cruelty.

Mrs. Gould seeks simply a legal separation, alleging cruelty and abandonment, but Gould brings a counter-suit for absolute divorce and names Dustin Farnum, the actor, and Colonel William F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, as corespondents. Many sensational statements have been made by each side and strenuously denied by the other.

Dustin Farnum and Colonel Cody are expected to take the stand and deny the allegations made against them. Howard Gould and his attorneys, Delancy Nicoll, took their places shortly before noon. He paid no attention to his wife, although she watched him very closely at times. All persons excepting newspaper representatives and witnesses were excluded from the court-room.

Delancy Nicoll moved to dismiss certain parts of the complaint at the opening on the ground that they did not comply with the statute. He then entered into a lengthy technical legal argument on the points at issue.

Nicoll urged that the complaint was not specific enough, but his motions were overruled.

Case Outlined.

Shearn then began to outline his case. "Despite all of the notoriety that has been given this case, it is a simple action for maintenance and separation. The parties to the action were married in October, 1898, and lived together eight years. Mr. Gould is a very wealthy man, having received one-sixth of a fortune of $73,000,000 which was left by his father, and has added greatly to that fortune by his own efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould sailed over the world in their private yacht, and entertained lavishly. Mrs. Gould is a woman of exceptional ability and untiring energy, and she found the chief pleasure in her life in developing Castle Gould, their home at Fort Washington, Long Island.

"They lived together happily, when there came an estrangement caused by the husband abandoning his love for home life. He then took up the life of a libertine. In 1906 he took the management of Castle Gould out of the hands of his wife and she was constantly humiliated by servants who were imported from Europe for that purpose.

Money Cut Off.

"Shortly afterward Gould sent her a message telling her through his attorneys that he had transferred his affections to another and would not return unless she would sign a pledge never to take another drink and to

TREE SURGEONS FIND EMPLOYMENT IN CITY

Three Young Men Treating Some Local Trees.

METHODS FOLLOWED IN NEW OCCUPATION

How an Expert Proceeds with a Diagnosis of the Trouble and Gives Diseased Tree the Benefit of a Science Recently Developed in the Colleges—Prolonging Life.

Little does the ordinary person watching the force of men that has been working on the surgery of trees in different parts of the city for the last few weeks realize just what a science the business is. These young men, Vernard H Smith, James A. Tully and Herbert Gruber are members of the Columbus Forestry company, which makes a business of doctoring and treating trees by employing many of the methods of the physician and surgeon. They have made a thorough study of the business, having taken a regular course preparatory to taking up the work. To illustrate how the work is regarded as a profession it need only be stated that a great many colleges have inaugurated a course relating to the care of forestry.

Years have been spent by scientists in the development of this work, and now it has been perfected to such practical use that many young men have graduated from schools having such a course in their curriculum, while there are many now engaged in study, preparatory to graduation.

This week the men are working in the High school yard. A Star reporter made a visit to the scene of their work and watched the details. The first thing that is done is to make a thorough examination of the tree to ascertain its exact condition just as a physician examines a patient, taking the pulse and the temperature, and making soundings to discover the ailment. After thoroughly examining the tree, the first work is to decide just what removal of decay in the trunk and limbs must be made. This is all systematically figured out before any work is attempted. Then the expert starts cutting out the decay in the trunk of the tree. Some times a great deal of deep decay is found, where in other cases it is practically all exterior In the case of catalpa tree in the southwest corner of the High school yard, a cavity about eighteen inches in width and sixty inches in height was cut. The cavity is large enough to contain a small man. As soon as such a cavity has been made, and thoroughly cauterized as it were, it is filled with a chemically-made cement, which is compactly packed into the hole. After this the surface is painted with a specially prepared paint. The tree doctors say that in time the bark will again grow around this cement. Then the men cut off certain limbs, some of which are alive. The stump of the removed limb is painted with a chemical substance to prevent a flow of sap. The tree is cropped wherever it is thought necessary, and then an examination of the roots is made. There are cases, said one of the men, where roots are so thick and so intertwined as to suddenly cause the death of the tree by stopping the flow of sap. These are always cleared out and untangled. The tree above mentioned is estimated to be about eighty years old, and without this treatment, the doctor said, it probably would have lived but eight or ten years longer. With the treatment given, he estimates its life at fifty years more, at least.

In the decay that is removed is found great numbers of insects and worms. With the decay removed and the cavity filled and hermetically sealed, there is no possible chance for the further life of insects or worms in the tree. In any branch where there may be any decay, no difference how large or small, the decay is entirely removed and the limb treated just like the trunk.

Then there are cases where stone walks so tightly fit about the trunk of the tree that the water supply is limited. In such cases filteration tanks are installed at a medium cost.

When asked how they could tell whether or not the tree was in condition to be preserved, one of the men replied that when there was a good foliage it was a sure sign of healthy roots.

Official Report of Decision of the Supreme Court Must Be Received Before the Commissioners Can Proceed—The Expense of Improving Is Estimated at $3,000 a Mile.

County Commissioner William H. Holverstott is authority for the statement that the work of widening, deepening and straightening the Little Scioto river will be started within a short time. "We are now waiting on the report of the supreme court, which dissolved the injunction restraining the commissioners from doing the work," said Commissioner Holverstott. "When that report is received the county surveyor will begin preliminaries."

Commissioner Holverstott says that the cost of improving the Little Scioto river will not be near as much as the majority of the taxpayers believe. "I estimate the cost from $2,500 to $3,000 a mile and there are about eighteen miles of it."

The task of improving the stream will be no small one. Work will be begun near Green Camp, at a point where the Little Scioto empties into the Scioto, and proceed north to the Wyandot county line.

The cost of the improvement will be assessed against the taxpayers benefitted. In Marion alone, several thousand lots will be assessed, but the commissioner says the assessment will be small.

"The truth about the matter is," Mr. Holverstott says, "many taxpayers, after the job is done, will not know they have been assesssed if they don't look closely at their tax receipts, the amount will be so small."

FOLLOWS WIFE INTO WHIRLPOOL

Louis Cohen Makes Desperate Attempt at Rescue.

KEEPS HER BODY AFLOAT AN HOUR

Only To Have His Wife Die in His Arms.

Despondent Woman, However, Is Dead Before Help Arrives and Corpse Floats to Brink of Cataract, Where It Is Rescued by Two Men Who Wade Through Raging Torrent Over Stepping Stones.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 7.—When Mrs. Louis Cohen of Buffalo leaped into the swirling river between second and third Sisters' islands, her husband, without a moment's hesitation, jumped in after her and, catching her by the hand, made a desperate effort to save her life.

Mrs. Cohen probably died in her husband's arms. Before it was possible to bring efficient help an hour had passed, during all of which time Cohen was making frantic attempts to reach the shore. But the struggle against the current—at this point it is about 20 miles an hour—was beyond his power.

Fortune aided him. With his wife tightly clasped to him he felt himself bump into a tree stump, and on this he got a grip with his one free hand. He lustily shouted for help and word was carried to the reservation police, but it was nearly an hour after Mrs. Cohen jumped into the river that Officer James Martin arrived with Representative James J. Simonds and three other men, carrying ropes.

Three times they threw the rope before it fell within Cohen's grasp. When he did catch it he was too weak to tie it about his own or his wife's waist. The two were 20 feet from shore, and it was extremely difficult, owing to the precarious nature of the footing, to make a good cast. Pinned against the tree stump by the terrific rush of water, all the strength he had gone, he had been unable to keep his wife's face above water.

Once Cohen had hold of the rope, the men on shore began to pull and Officer Martin, who was in the front, slipped and fell into the stream, but quickly regained his feet. When within 15 feet of the shore Cohen lost his grip on his wife's body and it was carried off down stream and was lost to view.

Rendered Speechless.

Cohen was so far gone when his rescuers got him on shore that he could not speak for 10 minutes. His first words were: "She is out there. Go and get her. She is dead. She died in my arms."

Meanwhile a crowd had gathered. Superintendent Perry and Chief Shoebridge skirted the Goat island shore looking for the body, but could see nothing of it. Cohen joined them, always insisting that the body might have stopped short of the cataract and might be rescued by men daring enough.

William Barnet and Hugh Brown, who had joined the searchers, finally spied the body. It was held fast by a rock about 100 feet above the brink. Without ropes Brown and Barnet waded out into the stream and, moving carefully over the slippery rocks, reached the body. Just as Brown touched the body the current caught it again and it whirled around an eddy. It was with great difficulty that the men brought the body to land. Life was quite extinct.

Cohen says that worry over the fact that she was unable to suckle her infant depressed his wife greatly and probably caused her desire for death. He, a robust man, quickly recovered from the shock of his experience.

THE BIG WIRE MILLS ARE BUSY

Steel Industry Takes on Ante-Panic Appearance.

New York, June 7.—The movement in finished steel products since the first of June would indicate that the heavy buying in May was less speculative in character than was supposed. Specifications have been coming to the mills in large volume, and the resulting demand for crude steel has called a larger number of blast furnaces of the steel corporation into commission to supply steel-making iron.

The American Steel and Wire company shipped 190,000 tons of wire products last month, breaking all such records, which is in keeping with the excessive sales, and are receiving urgent requests for additional shipments. Current wire orders continue to run at the rate of 9,000 tons per day, or 2,000 tons in excess of productive capacity.

JUDGE WEYGANDT ISSUES ORDER

Ashland County Executors Are Told To Disgorge Fees.

Ashland, O., June 7.—Judge W. E. Weygandt of Wooster rendered his decision in the matter of the exceptions to the final account of G. A. Ullman, executor of the estate of Mary F. Freer. He ordered the executor to pay back to the Children's home fund created by the will over $15,000, $4,657 in fees to attorneys for defending the will during the attempt to break it and $8,000 fees to himself. Twenty-four hundred dollars had been paid back by Judge Campbell before the case passed into the hands of the judge.

The motions to quash the indictments charging Judge R. M. Campbell with forgery and Judges Campbell and McCray, Senator Patterson and G. A. Ullman with embezzlement in connection with the Freer estate were sustained. Judge Weygandt overruled the motions to quash the indictments charging Judge Campbell with obtaining $3,099 from the Oliver estate under false pretenses, and the law firm of McCray & McCray with embezzling $302 from Lemuel H. Biekley.

BOY OVERHEARS MURDER STORY

Man on Streetcar Tells of Killing Binkley.

THROWS REVOLVER ON DOCTOR'S BED

Evansville Physician Forfeits His Life.

Awakens While the Man Who Tells the Story on the Streetcar Is Going Through His Pockets—Confessed Murderer Also Describes Loot Obtained—Chicago Police Abandon the Suicide Theory.

Chicago, June 8.—The theory that Dr. John T. Binkley of Evansville, Ind., committed suicide at the Wellington hotel last Wednesday, was abandoned by the police after a conference between Captain of Detectives O'Brien and Dr. John T. Binkley, Jr., and the two detectives sent to Evansville had submitted a partial report of their findings. Captain O'Brien leaned to the suicide theory from the first, but now reluctantly admits that it is his belief that the aged physician was murdered.

A story told by a boy of Pittsburg who heard three men on a streetcar discussing the murder, and the boy's declaration that one of the men said he shot and killed Dr. Binkley, added fresh interest to the investigation.

The conversation heard by the boy, whose name the police would not divulge, was carried on in English and German, but he is able to understand both languages. One of the men said he was forced to shoot, as the old man awakened while he was being searched. Asked what he obtained, he answered that it was $55 and a check, but he had destroyed the check. He also added that he threw his revolver on the bed.

SYSTEM OF PEONAGE IN RAILROAD CAMPS

Six Boys Kidnaped at San Antonio Within Week.

San Antonio, Tex., June 8.—Six kidnapings within a week have caused intense excitement here and the whole police force has been put to work to solve the mystery. The stolen boys have all disappeared near one of the railroad stations and one of the theories is that they have been taken to various railroad construction camps and are being held under a system of peonage.

Julius Samoras, the last boy to disappear, was stolen yesterday. No letters or word of any kind have been sent to the parents of the missing lads and it is believed the boys are being held for ransom. The camps on various railroads for 150 miles around are being searched.

Columbus, O., June 8.—Governor Harmon has called upon all the people of Ohio to display the American flag on June 14 and asks that it be unfurled on every public building in the state on that day, in honor of the 132nd anniversary of the adoption of the colors of the United States. The proclamation of the governor was issued Tuesday.

MOB ROBS LAW OF ITS VICTIM

Strings Up Condemned Negro in Jail Yard.

IT OVERPOWERS GUARD BY RUSE

Colored Murderer Was To Have Been Executed.

Rumor Had It, However, That He Feigned Insanity To Secure a Commutation of Sentence, and This Arouses the Fury of the Mob Which Decides To Run No Chances with the Law.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 7.—Dangling from a limb in the county jail yard, and within sight of the dome of Florida's capitol, the lifeless body of Malk Morris, colored, greeted the people of this city.

Already condemned to death for the murder of William Langston, late sheriff of this county, the negro would within five days paid the penalty of his crime with his life at the hands of the law. A mob of not more than 15 men decreed otherwise, however, and Morris was dragged from his cell in the jail and strung to the limb of a tree within the jail inclosure. As if to add emphasis to their lawlessness, the masked band emptied a round of cartridges into the lifeless body of the negro and rode away without the slightest molestation.

Sheriff Houston was in Georgia, and when the lynchers arrived at the jail they brought the jailer to the door with the ruse that they had a prisoner, then overpowered him, took his keys, secured the negro Morris, locked the jailer in Morris' cell and soon accomplished their work.

Lately Morris had been acting strangely, and it is believed that fear that the negro would attempt to escape the gallows through feigned insanity prompted the act of the mob.

Langston was killed by the negro Morris in March last, while the sheriff was attempting to arrest him for a crime committed in Georgia. The coroner's inquest failed to develop any clew as to the identity of the men composing the mob.

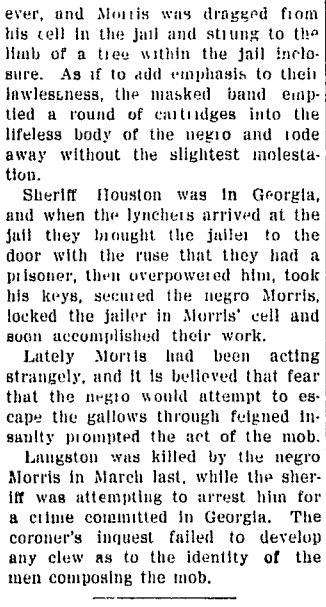
A BUTCHER TURNS A RAVING MANIAC

Sixth Victim of Stock Yards Employe Dying.

Cambridge, Mass., June 7.—The death of Dr. Daniel C. Hays, who was stabbed by John Murphy, the hog butcher, who slew five men and seriously wounded three others at Somerville, is expected hourly. John Cheevas and Joseph Chicosk, who also were stabbed, are both in a critical condition and their recovery is considered doubtful.

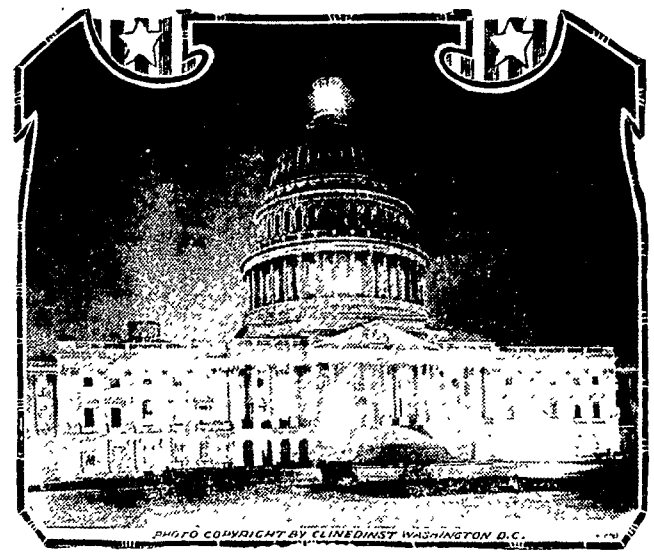
In a padded cell at the Somerville police station Murphy allowed no one to approach him, and after hours of raving he began to pray. He will be given a hearing today and probably will be held for the the grand jury.

THE SUCCESSOR TO SENATOR HOPKINS OF SUCKER STATE



William Lorimer, who will succeed Senator Hopkins of Illinois, is serving his sixth term in the lower house of congress. He is a native of Manchester, England, and came to America in 1870. He is forty eight years old. When he was twelve years old his father died, and the lad became a sign painter's apprentice. Later he was employed in Chicago packing houses and then became a street car conductor, graduating from that sphere into the real estate and general contracting business. Twenty years ago he was a power in ward politics. Personal magnetism, loyalty to his political friends and a keen knowledge of the game have kept him in the public eye ever since.

NATIONAL CAPITOL AT NIGHT DURING SENATE TARIFF DEBATE



During the senate's night sessions on the tariff the capitol is a blaze of light, even to the tower, and presents a striking picture. The sessions usually last well into the night, the streets without being deserted while the senator valiantly wrestle with the intricacies of maximum and minimum schedules. An exposure of one hour was required to take the photograph of the capitol at night from which this illustration was reproduced.

KILLS HERSELF AND CHILDREN

Twelve Hours After Arrest of Her Husband,

ON A CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Uses Gas To Accomplish Her Deadly Purpose.

John Glaesser Is Accused of Taking $275 Belonging to the Cigar Company for Which He Works, but After the Tragedy the Company Refuses To Make Any Charge Against Him.

St. Louis, June 7. — Twelve hours after her husband, John Glaesser, had been taken from home by the police under the charge of embezzlement, Mrs. Martha Glaesser was found dead in bed by the side of the bodies of her children, Arnette, 8, and John Jr., 5. The room was filled with gas and the police advance the theory that the mother, after closing the windows and doors of the room, turned on the gas, which ended three lives. All were in night robes. It is supposed the excitement following the arrest of her husband preyed on Mrs. Glaesser's mind.

Glaesser was released from the hold-over, and the cigar company which caused his arrest said there would be no prosecution, as Glaesser had been punished severely already. Glaesser was a salesman for the cigar company and had been charged with embezzling $275.

THE FIRST NIGHT OF WEDDED LIFE

Spent by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wisler of Findlay.

Findlay, O., June 8.—Spending their first night of wedded life in a cell at the police station was the unique experience of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wisler. Mrs. Wisler, a handsome young woman who is well known in Findlay, is accused of perjury and her husband, who is said to be the son of a prominent merchant at Bellefontaine, refused to leave her alone in prison.

The couple were wedded Monday evening at 8 o'clock and, with a crowd of friends went to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Baney, at No. 110 north Main street, where a wedding feast was served. While the festivities were at their height, a policeman appeared and arrested Mr. Wisler on the charge of perjury.

The policeman and the bride and bridegroom went to the police station where the bride was locked up under heavy bail. The bridegroom insisted that he be locked up with his new mate and after some delay the chief of police consented to his request.

A few months ago, Mrs. Wisler, then Miss Pearl Baney, caused the arrest of a prominent young man on the charge of attempted assault. She failed to establish a conviction, and her arrest is the outgrowth of testimony she offered at this trial.

MAGAZINE HIT BY LIGHTNING

Five Hundred Persons Are Injured at Cracow,

AND IT IS FEARED MANY ARE KILLED

Fifty Houses in the Vicinity Blown Down.

It Is Feared That Many of the Occupants Are Dead in the Ruins—The Work of Clearing Away the Wreckage Is Placed Under the City Authorities as a Precautionary Measure.

Vienna, June 7.—Five hundred persons were injured, and it is feared many killed in the explosion of a powder magazine at Cracow, Poland, according to messages received here today.

The explosion occurred Saturday evening and details of the disaster are still lacking. Fifty houses were blown down, and it is believed that many dead are under the ruins. The work of clearing away the wreckage has been placed under the city authorities as a precautionary measure.

The explosion was caused by lightning striking the magazine.

The magazine was close to the railway station, and the explosion occurred just as a train was pulling into the station. The explosion wrecked the train and injured 150 of the passengers. There was more than $1,000,000 worth of ammunition in the magazine. The total loss will be several times this amount. Scarcely a building in the town escaped injury, while many were completely wrecked.

Late word from Cracow says that so far five bodies of soldiers have been recovered.

The hospitals of the town are crowded with the victims.

PROSPERITY WAVE SIGHTED IN EAST

Steel Men Fear Supply Not Equal to Demand.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 8.—From a canvass made of the principal iron and steel manufacturers, it is apparent that a wave of prosperity equal to any experienced in this country is about to take place.

The recent stagnation in the iron and steel business is described as "the little industrial rest." From a majority of the interviews obtained here the fear is expressed that wants in the iron and steel business will return with such a rush as to cause congestion.

The steel and plate department of the National Tube company's works at Wheeling, W. Va., began operations today, double turn, giving employment to 4,500 men who have been idle since November, 1907.

Why Prosperity Is Due.

New York, June 8.—The end of the Roosevelt administration, quick settlement of the tariff question and assurances of excellent crops are given as the threefold basis for prophecying the approach of a period of great national prosperity, in the annual report of the Consolidated Stock Exchange.

Our idea of a man with strong will power is one who never talks about the weather.

ANARCHISTS TAMPERING

With the Enlisted Men of American Navy.

ARE ENDEAVORING TO EXCITE DISCONTENT

And Destroy Navy's Standard of Patriotism.

Secretary Meyer Has Brought the Matter Before the President and the Cabinet, and, as the Persons Responsible Are Known Steps Will Be Taken To Restrain Them Use of Mails.

Washington, June 7.—Secretary Meyer has laid before the president and the cabinet information to the effect that an anarchistic element is trying to excite prejudice and discontent and destroy the standard of patriotism and efficiency of the enlisted force of the navy.

Meyer and the general board are clearly perturbed over the situation.

It is expected that the navy department will call upon Postmaster General Hitchcock to take action against these societies and individuals who are responsible.

A secret investigation by the department has unearthed the responsible persons and the originators and disseminators of the inflammatory documents. This matter has been kept secret, and action against those responsible, postponed because of the belief of the administration officials that such action would be opposed by a class of citizens as an indication that the government was interfering with free speech. It is realized now, however, that in view of the well-organized campaign for the dissemination of this material among the military and naval forces of the United States that something must be done.

ZUBER PROMISES TO BE VERY ECONOMICAL

Salaries Will Be Reduced and Other Things Done.

NEW FIRE MARSHAL MAKES SELECTIONS

Will Lop Off Entirely the Five Special Secret Service Men Who Draw Salaries Amounting to About $10,000 a Year—O. L. Hartupee Will Be Given a Job Again.

Columbus, O., June 8.—Reduction of salaries and economy in other directions is to be the watchword of State Fire Marshal John W. Zuber, the Paulding attorney and Democrat appointed Saturday at the time of the suspension from office of General W. S. Rogers, Republican.

In making the first three appointments in the building of a new force, Marshal Zuber made a reduction of $1,600 per year, and announces that he will lop off entirely the five special secret service jobs with a saving of perhaps $10,000 per year.

The secret service men are the creation of General Rogers and they have been so secret that the Republican head of the department has refused to divulge their names.

David B. Sharp, Columbus, was Monday appointed by Marshal Zuber as the attorney for the department to replace C. E. Ellis, also of Columbus. Sharp had the same position under Fire Marshal Creamer. In making this appointment Marshal Zuber reduced the salary from $2,400 to $1,600, the amount paid by the former Democratic head of the department. Fire Marshal Zuber also announced that he had fixed the salary of Chief Assistant J. H. Newman at $2,000 a reduction from $2,800, the amount paid to Chief Assistant Harlan Hollenbeck, under Marshal Rogers.

O. L. Hartupee, of Columbus, who had a position under Marshal Creamer, will be taken back into the department and probably be given the second deputyship.

ROGERS TURNS OVER HIS KEYS

Has Not Given Up Claim to Fire Marshal's Job.

Columbus, O., June 8.—General W. S. Rogers of Cleveland visited the state fire marshal's office for the first time since the truce of Saturday night, surrendered all the keys to John W. Zuber of Paulding and departed for his home in Cleveland. From there he expects to send a letter to Governor Harmon expressing his position on his summary dismissal from office.

What action, if any, will be taken in behalf of Mr. Rogers has not been decided by H. M. Daugherty and J. E. Todd, his attorneys. It is denied that he has surrendered all claim by giving Zuber undisputed possession of the office.

Senator T. A. Dean of Fremont found the marshal's ear to demand that the Sandusky office be re-established in charge of a local Democrat.

THE ERIE DISCHARGES MAKERS OF TROUBLE

Cause of Dissatisfaction of Workers Is Learned.

THE OFFICIALS TAKE VERY PROMPT ACTION

Clarence Bieber Is Given Another Very Nice Promotion—He Will Have His Headquarters in Cleveland—W. C. Shurtleff Returns to Duty After Illness—Notes.

Following the trouble with foreigners employed at the Erie transfer, last week, it develops that further trouble has been instigated by certain men. The difficulty as originally presented to officials of the company was a demand for a concession in wages The men wanted to be paid by the day as a whole rather than by the hour. Saturday, following the trouble of the preceeding day, several of the men again refused to go to work. An investigation showed the officials that certain men were the cause and they were dismissed from the service of the company Monday. The other men worked during the day.

The annual inspection of the police patrol, the fire protection and the buildings of the Erie railroad will be held some time next week. William Hillhaus, inspector of police and Eugene Riley, fire inspector will be in charge of the work. The plan, as it will be carried out this year, will include an inspection of all patrolmen and the general department equipment all along the system.

As the New York state fire competition meeting is to be held at Hornell, next month, the regular competition meeting of Erie departments will be held there also, it being a division point of the system. Heretofore, the competition has been between companies at their own quarters, but this year the contest will be at Horneil, where all squads will be equipped with proper apparatus for a fair and square contest.

W. F. Schaff, for several years trainmaster of this division of the Big Four, has resigned his position, his resignation to be effective June 15 Mr Schaff during his service in this capacity has made many friends who will regret to hear that he will leave but who also will be equally as much pleased to learn that the cause of his change is an advancement in the railroad world. Mr. Schaff is to go to the Lake Shore in a similar capacity, but the new position is a promotion. It is generally conceded along the system that Mr. Morris, a general yardmaster at Cleveland, is to be assigned to the Schaff vacancy.

Clarence B. Bieber, for years identified with the Erie at this point, has been given another promotion with the Chicago & Great Western For some time past he has been contracting freight agent of the company with headquarters in Pittsburg. His new position, general commercial agent, will move him to Cleveland, where he will succeed C. C. Crawford, who has resigned. The order relative to the appointment is effective June 10.

Local friends of L. E. Cole have received word to the effect that his wife was taken seriously sick, recently, and was removed to a hospital where she is to undergo a serious operation. Mr. Cole will be remembered as former clerk in the Erie freight office here, but he is now yard-clerk for the Santa Fe at La Junta, Colorado.

THE LOCAL GOSSIPS HAVE GREAT STORY

Number of Young Girls Give a Very Sensational Dance.

Colorado Springs, Col., June 8.—"Tinkle Garter," or what happened at a recent select dance here, is a tale being circulated by the gossips of local society. The dance, it is said, was given by a number of young girls to the members of the "frats" of their boy friends. During the first waltz the young men were puzzled by a soft tinkling sound of far-off sleigh bells that increased to a pronounced jingle when the dancers glided into a lively two-step. Then just when the mystery was greatest there was a jangle and a smothered feminine cry. One of the young men picked from the floor and held up to the gaze of his fellow frat members a pink ribbon spangled with tiny bells. After that, the story goes, the girls with many blushes, confessed. Each of them wore an "orchestra garter."

If you are the salt of the earth have, too, depth of convictions. you will not be dropping yourself on the sore places in other folk.

ASPIRANTS FOR OFFICE SECURING PETITIONS

Some Who Wish To Hold Public Positions.

GENERAL PRIMARIES NEXT SEPTEMBER

No Particular Rush About Obtaining Petitions, but Several Are in the Field and Others Are Expected in the Near Future—Those Who Are Now Soliciting Signers.

Marion city aspirants for office are not falling over one another in mad strife to secure petitions as required by the primary law before they can become candidates. The general primaries will not be held until September 7, however, and there is plenty of time yet for budding politicians to satisfy their hankering for public favor.

For mayor, Fred A. Issleib, Republican, and Charles G. Schneider, Democrat, are avowed candidates. Both have obtained the necessary petitions and are now hustling to get two per cent. of the party's vote cast at the last municipal election No other mayorality aspirants have as yet applied.

A. W. Bryant, Democrat, is out for councilman-at-large. He is the only claimant for the office up to date.

Elmer T. Boyd, Republican, the present city solicitor, has obtained a petition and is now seeking the two per cent. of signers. He will encounter no difficulty. Homer E. Johnson, who was defeated for the Democratic nomination for probate judge last fall, is the Democratic aspirant for the city solicitor nomination. No others have applied.

In the country, Frank Fletcher, Republican, is the only applicant for land appraisor.

All candidates must file their petitions twenty days before the primaries.

ANTI-SALOONISTS' PROPERTY BURNED

All the Fires Are Found To Be of Incendiary Origin.

Lebanon, O., June 7.—For the second time within a week property of prominent Anti-Saloon league workers have was burned to the ground early Sunday morning. The first fire occurred Memorial day, when a large barn belonging to Alfred Snook, private detective of the Anti-Saloon league, was burned to the ground. He at once resigned his position. Sunday morning several sheds in the rear of the residence of W. F. Eltzroth, attorney for the league, were burned to the ground. Evidence was found that waste, soaked in oil, had been scattered about the sheds. Bloodhounds were put on the trail, but were able to follow it only to a point on the railroad tracks where the oil-soaked waste was secured. Feeling over the two fires, which are believed to have been of incendiary origin, is running high.

NEW RANKING OFFICER IN ARMY AND ONE WHO JUST RETIRED

With the retirement of Lieutenant General Arthur MacArthur at the age limit of sixty-four years terminates an anomalous situation in which that officer has found himself during the last two years. With his retirement, the grade of lieutenant general on the active list of the army ceases. It probably will not be revived except as a special honor for one who distinguishes himself in battle. There are now six lieutenant generals on the retired list at $8,250 salary a year. They are Nelson A. Miles, S. M. B. Young, A. R. Chaffee, John C Bates, Henry C. Corbin and Arthur MacArthur. General MacArthur has been busy for several weeks at his home in Milwaukee preparing a report on his observations while with the Japanese army in Manchuria. With the retirement of MacArthur, Major General Leonard Wood, now commanding the Department of the East, becomes ranking officer without increase of rank. This photograph of the general and Mrs. Wood was taken at Governor's island recently.

A ROLL CALL OF HEROES.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for June 13 Is, "Heroes of Faith." Hebrews 11:1-10.

Somebody has characterized this as the age of faith. Superficially, it seems an age of doubt. Yet a deeper look into our own times reveals everywhere the spirit of confidence in what cannot be seen. The twentieth century's plans outrun all in exact computations that man can make. We are tunneling our cities and rivers, planning continental networks of railways, building confidently upon trans-oceanic conditions that are yet to be developed, and plotting highways in the air. Modern commerce, which is so often remarked for its "hard-headness," really possesses the eye of faith.

For faith may not by any means be limited to the realm of the spirit. Wherever men's confidence outreaches their actual knowledge they are in exercise of faith. Browning glimpsed the human capacity for the exercise of this high quality when he cried, "A man's reach must exceed his grasp, else what's a heaven for?" In the olden day which forms the theme of these Sunday-school lessons it was faith in a Message which sent apostle Paul and his associates pioneering into heathendom with their missionary gospel. It was a simple faith in the present power and ultimate conquest of the risen Christ that fortified them for all their ordeals and enterprises. That same faith created the early Christian church. Faith in Jesus made him "a living, bright reality" to the rapidly increasing company of first century people whose eyes had never looked upon him. The apostle said: "Whom having not seen we love." "Seeing is believing," says the modern proverb, which is no more true than most proverbs. Our own times, which accept the witness of a deeper sense than that of material sight, and which attest the existence of faculties truer than any of the five-senses so subject to illusion, is readier to declare, "Believing is not seeing."

This letter to the Hebrews, with its thrilling roll call of the heroes of faith, was written to one of the early missionary churches, possibly at Jerusalem, possibly at Alexandria or at Rome. Its purpose was to quicken the faith of the disciples who had come out from Judaism, and to show them that Christ was the fulfilling of the law. Because the King James version bears under the title of this book the name of the apostle Paul most people believe that the great aposile was its author This is far from being a certainty. The weight of critical research goes the other way. The letter was more probably written by Barnabas, Paul's associate, although Luther, in agreement with other students, considers Apollos to have been the writer of it. Whatever the authorship, there is no doubt about the book's right to a place in the New Testament canon.

How Faith Comes.

Moody once said in my hearing: "For a long time I prayed for faith, but it did not come. Then I began to read my Bible in pursuit of faith, and I quickly found it." Naturally, for the true word declares "Faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." The person who is concerned about his lack of faith may more profitably dwell in these great chapters of the book of the Hebrews than spend nights agonizing in prayer, for here, at the mouth of many witnesses, is the reality of faith established, and its nature set forth.

Many persons are speculating about spiritualities, trying, like the spider, to spin a life line out of their inner selves, when it is really by searching the scriptures that spiritualities become realities. For listlessness of belief, for a dimmed zeal, for spiritless praying, the one remedy is to turn to the book which imparts a knowledge of the divine will. The faith-filled disciple is the Bible-reading disciple The strong, spiritual and successful church is the church of Bible-reading members.

What Is Faith?

The somewhat archaic expressions of old formulations are an obstacle to clear thinking and to unclouded belief. The King James version, dear as are many of its peerless passages, has yet been a hindrance to a perfect understanding of the scriptures. Ignorant persons long railed at revisions of the Bible, unwittingly taking the position that it is the English translation that is inspired. Nowadays the most practical as well as the most scholarly teachers are advocating for general use the latest and best versions. The Vatican has a commission at work at the present time upon the revision of the Vulgate of St. Jerome. There is an edition of the scriptures in rather free and colloquial translation called the "Twentieth Century New Testament." Its specific object is to render the original Greek into the language of today. In many cases it gets close to the real meaning of the writer where the more cumbersome and stately language of the accepted revisions is difficult of comprehension. New light is shed upon the meaning of the writer of the letter to the Hebrews by these quotations from this modern version:

"Faith is confidence in the realization of one's hopes; it is a conviction, recording things which are not yet visible, and it was for such faith that the men of old were well spoken of. * * * It was faith that enabled Abraham to obey the call that he received, and to set out for the place which he was afterward to obtain as his own; and he did so without knowing at the time where he was going. It was faith that made him go to the promised land—a stranger to a strange country—and live there in tents with Isaac and Jacob, who shared the promised land with him. He was looking for the city with the sure foundations, whose architect and builder is God.

"It was faith that caused Moses, when he was grown up, to decline the title of 'Son of a Daughter of Pharaoh.' He preferred to share the hardships of God's people rather than have the short-lived enjoyment of a sinful life. For he thought that the stigma which attaches to the Christ was of greater value than the treasures of Egypt, looking forward, as he did, to the reward awaiting him. Faith caused him to leave Egypt, undaunted by the king's anger, for he was strengthened in his endurance by the vision of the invisible God."

"Vision of the invisible"—that phrase defines faith. It is the inner spiritual light that makes plain what material faculties cannot perceive, or material powers demonstrate. Within this realm lie all of life's best things.

Modern Visionaries.

"Visionary," does some one call the man of faith? Here struts the physical scientist, who accepts nothing which cannot be proved in his laboratory. Ask him to define electricity. Ask him to explain the nature of life, not pushing him to the extremity of trying to explain the beginnings of life. Your physical scientist, will straightway walk more softly, recalling that the very atmosphere about him is charged with mysterious waves about which his science has only lately begun to make discoveries, and he will confess that all his certainties about the atomic theory have gone to smash within a generation. Faith is as scientific in this twentieth century as is ocular demonstration.

If we are to classify as visionaries all the men of faith, we shall find ourselves grouping in this same gallery of God most of the mighty men who have made history. America will give a high place to that visionary, Columbus. We make room for the artist whose eye of faith sees on the plain canvas the vision of his soul; and for the sculptor who can perceive the angel in the block of marble, and for the architect who can build a city in a wilderness. And what shall we say of the men, such as have been recently in session at Chicago in the peace conference, who have glimpsed the era of world peace and of human brotherhood? Or of that larger company who look forward with confidence, even as did Abraham of old, to a conquest of the whole human race to the will and love of Jehovah?

In Simplest Terms.

The climax of this letter is to be found in the beginning of what is called the twelfth chapter in our chopped-up versions, with their arbitrary divisions. The writer was leading up, by the way of the heroes of Israel's history, to the faith of which Christ is the beginning and the ending. Again to quote from the Twentieth Century New Testament:" "Seeing that there is on every side of us such a throng of witnesses, let us, therefore, in our turn lay aside everything that hinders us, and the sin that clings about us, and run with perseverance the course that lies before us, our eyes fixed upon Jesus, who is our Guide and our perfect example of faith, and who, in exchange for the happiness that lay at his fee , submitted to the cross, disregarding its shame, and has now taken his seat on the right hand of the throne of God."

Of course faith is mystery. By the testimony of many more witnesses than the inspired writer ever knew, it can be proved that there is a power in Jesus Christ which he imparts to those who trust in him. That power, which is given to the confiding, keeps men pure and strong, and makes them victorious. It brings the individual life and organized society into subjugation to the mind of Christ. "This is the victory which overcometh the world, even our faith."

A married man should come home early at least one night each week—just to show his wife that he can do it.

TWO MINISTERS FILE COMPLAINTS IN COURT

Alleged Illegal Sales of Liquor in the City.

TWO PLACES ARE VISITED BY POLICE

Herman Kalkbrenner Is Held To Answer Charge—Cases of Supposed Beer Are Seized—Nothing Found in Ignatz Bender's Place—Chicken Thieves at Work—Notes.

Shortly before 6 o'clock Saturday evening, Rev. H V. McCleary filed an affidavit for a search warrant for the place of Herman Kalkbrenner, on west Center street, and Rev. G. E Barnard took similar action against the place of Ignatz Bender, on west Center street. The ministers claimed to have sufficient cause for believing that the owners of both places were violating the local-option law.

A short time later, the places were visited all the officers of the force participating in the search. Chief Cornwell, with Officers Wilhelm and Cusic, went to the Nordica hotel, conducted by Kalkbrenner, and after reading the warrant, a careful search of the place was made. At the same time Captain Bond and Officers Bell and McDonough were searching the place conducted by Ignatz Bender.

No intoxicants of any kind were found in the bar-room at the Nordica hotel, but in the dining-room to the rear, seventeen cases, of what is alleged to be beer, was found. This was loaded in a wagon and taken to the city prison. At the Bender hotel, nothing was found by the officers and there was no signs that the law was being violated. After the officers returned from the search, Rev. H. V. McCleary informed Captain Bond that he did not believe a careful search had been made at Bender's place Although a shed at the rear had been visited, the preacher stated that he was certain beer could be found in this shed. The captain returned and made a second search which revealed nothing.

Chief Cornwell filed an affidavit charging Kalkbrenner with keeping a place where intoxicating liquors are sold and kept for sale.

Kalkbrenner appeared, Monday morning, for hearing, represented by Attorney L. E Myers. The prosecution is represented by Attorneys J. H. Thompson and City Solicitor E. T. Boyd. The hearing was continued until next Monday at 1 o'clock.

The local police received a communication from LaRue, Saturday evening, asking them to be on the lookout for an alleged chicken thief, named Gibson, who was wanted at West Mansfield. Wholesale raids have been made by chicken thieves in the vicinity mentioned and, Saturday evening, four men, implicated in the theft, were chased.

About two miles north of LaRue a posse of twenty men were close on the heels of Gibson, aged twenty-eight years. The man took a course over fields and through woods and brush, but could not elude his pursuers. He was headed toward the river and owing to the stream being unusually high, it was thought he could be cut off, but Gibson swam the stream and made his escape. After crossing the stream, he was traced to Hepburn where he was seen to board an eastbound train. Gibson's father, who was one of the quartet of thieves, was captured and taken to West Mansfield. The other two men in the party made their escape.

GREEN CAMP SPUR NOT IN OPERATION

Suspension of Service Is Cause of Complaint.

Traffic on the Green Camp spur of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company has not been resumed, and General Manager George Whysall, in reply to a query, Monday, said that he did not know whether or not the line would be placed in operation this summer. "I hardly think so, however," he said in conclusion.

Operation of the line, which runs from Owens to Green Camp, was abandoned last summer because of a lack of patronage.

Complaint has been made in some quarters that the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company, by failing to operate the line, is violating a right-of-way agreement

There are the first photographs of the baby Princess Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, of Holland, who was born to Queen Wilhelmina on April 30 and whose arrival sent a thrill of joy to the heart of every Netherlander alive The pictures were taken by an attache of the castle. In one the queen is kneeling beside the little princess, and in the other the prince consort is holding her reverently in his arms. Doubtless no royal infant ever was more proudly welcomed that Princess Juliana, for after the people of the Netherlands had twice seen their hopes dashed they had begun to fear for their independence, because a German prince probably would have come to the throne of Holland ultimately in the vent of there being no direct heir And Juliana has been showered with gifts as no other baby ever was. From every part of the world costly presents have come to her, and when she is wheeled out for an airing the people strew flowers in her path. The first soldier to salute her received a purse of gold from the prince, her father. The lucky fellow, a sergeant on duty at one of the gates to the palace grounds, saw a perambulator approaching, and, suddenly divining that it contained the princess, he faced about, stood at attention and brought his rifle to "present." The prince, who was standing at a window in the castle, was so touched by the incident that he promptly rewarded the sergeant.

THE FRANK ROGERS TRIAL ENDED TUESDAY

Verdict of Manslaughter Returned by Jury.

STRONG PLEA MADE FOR THE PRISONER

Jury Deliberates Seven Hours Before It Makes Its Report—Attorney Mouser Keeps the Court Room in Tears During His Plea, Which Lasts Two Hours.

The trial of Frank Rodgers, charged with the murder of Samuel Williams at Lima, was concluded in the Lima courts Tuesday, when the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter after seven hours of deliberation. The trial lasted but four days.

Rodgers is a former Marion man and his mother and other relatives from this city were with the accused throughout the trial. He was defended by the local law firm of Mouser & Moloney, and in regard to the closing hours of the trial and the plea of ex-Congressman Mouser for the prisoner the Lima Daily News says:

The court-room was in tears Monday morning during the two hours' plea for the defense by former Congressman Mouser, of Marion. The plea was the strongest and most pathetic of any heard in the Allen county capital in many years. The aged mother and sisters of the man charged with murder sat just inside the court rail, and all wept bitterly as the plea progressed. Many of those in the audience gave way to tears, and the entire scene was one to touch the heart of the strongest man.

The former congressman dwelt at length upon the attempted suicide of Rodgers several years ago when he ate a quantity of "rough on rats," and how the testimony declared that he had never been "just the same" since that time. This was what the alleged murderer's own mother testified after she had tottered to the stand under her weight of seventy years and more.

The Marion attorney-congressman plead with the jury for acquittal, claiming that Rodgers had been suffering from this strain of dismentality for some time. He briefly reviewed throughout his talk the testimony referring to it in many instances and speaking of incidents brought out by the trial that caused the tears to come into the eyes of the relatives seated in the court-room.

Self-esteem never lets up until it reaches the jumping-off place.

W. Culbertson and Mrs. T. H. Hodder.

The deceased had been an invalid for more than ten years. Saturday, her condition suddenly took a decided change for the worse and she realized that she was dying. She was conscious almost to the last. She was next to the youngest of a family of fourteen children, all of whom but the youngest, Mrs. M. Tambling, of Chagrin Falls, are dead.

BURDENS LIFTED

From Marion Backs—Relief Proved by Lapse of Time.

Backache is a heavy burden;
Nervousness wears one out;
Rheumatic pain; urinary ills;
All are kidney burdens—
Daily effects of kidney weakness.
No use to cure the symptoms.
Relief is but temporary if the cause remains.
Cure the kidneys and you cure the cause.
Relief comes quickly—comes to stay.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney ills;

Here's Marion testimony.
The story of a permanent cure.

Benjamin Copeland, retired farmer, 773 N. Main Street, Marion, Ohio, says: "It is all of five years ago that I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, but I received so much benefit from them that it is a pleasure to confirm my former statement. This remedy relieved me of a severe attack of backache and also disposed of a pain and lameness in my loins. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, knowing that they live up to the claims made for them."

COPPER KING IN CLASH WITH FEDERAL COURT

F. Augustus Heinze, the Montana and New York capitalist and head of the United Copper company, is in a spirited clash with the federal court in New York City. The court ordered the directors of the copper company to produce certain books in the government inquiry into Heinze's methods, but they found themselves unable to do so because Heinze had the books in his possession. The United Copper company case has attracted widespread attention because of the indictments resting against Heinze for his part in failures following the panic of 1907.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE AT PASTOR'S HOME

Mrs. Caroline Straw and Mr. Henry Hazen.

Mrs Caroline Straw and Mr. Henry Hazen were united in marriage at the home of the bride, No. 327 Pearl street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. Clarence E. Miller, pastor of the Central Christian church, officiating.

Mr. Hazen was in business here a number of years and is now engaged in the lumber and planing mill industry at Prospect.

The bride is the widow of Abraham Straw and a most estimable woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen will make their future home on east Church street.

CITY LANDOWNER.

New York city with close to 4,000,000 people has only 100,000 landowners. But one of each seven voters has an inch of earth he can call his own. Of every nine families with the average membership of five, only one owns land. The rest are renters, contributing to the opulence of landlord, migrating from place to place as the spirit and the rent collector impel.

Conditions in New York are scarcely typical, for the contracted area, the large percentage of new immigrants and other abnormal conditions make home owning difficult. It is, however, true that a surprisingly small proportion of families in any of the larger American cities have legal possession of the roofs that shelter them. It is estimated that, taking the United States as a whole, approximately half the families own their own homes, but this comparison is maintained only because the inhabitants of rural sections largely follow the example of their forefathers and are not content until they can call a home their own. The city is the abode of the migrant.

It is probable that the "problem of the city" arises in part from this condition, everywhere recognized and deplored. The home owner is justly esteemed a better citizen, other things being equal, than the one who rents. The former feels his responsibility to his city and state more keenly than the latter; his habits and thoughts are less nomadic, his personal interests more certain to coincide with the interest of his community.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

If we all had our own way other people would quickly get out of it.

WHY GOLD GOES ABROAD.

Nearly $50,000,000 of gold has been sent abroad from this city since the beginning of the year and it is still going. The outward movement bids fair to keep up through the summer and until bills of exchange are drawn in larger volume on account of either new security issues or merchandise exports in the autumn. No doubt the primary cause of these gold exports is the increase in merchandise imports which has taken place in recent months, while exports have been comparatively light. In March the excess of commodity exports over imports was less than $6,000,000, and is likely to prove still smaller for April. This must be much less than we have to pay on foreign account for various other things than imported merchandise, such as shipping, banking, insurance and interest and dividends on foreign investments in this country. We have also to pay for securities held abroad which are sold back to us on inflated stock market prices, and the expenses of Americans living or traveling abroad draw gold out of the country. Comparatively slack business, an inflated volume of currency and low money rates help the process.

No doubt we can spare the gold, but nevertheless its departure does not reflect a favorable condition for our trade. We send gold to Buenos Ayres to pay for wheat that goes from Argentina to Europe, mostly to England, partly because for lack of a sufficient surplus and too high a price we can not ship wheat ourselves. If we have payments to make abroad which we can not meet with bills of exchange drawn against commodities sold we must necessarily pay in gold as bills on us mature. We are not maintaining large credits abroad by borrowing on finance bills, because borrowing rates are so low at home, and there would be no profit providing for payment with merchandise bills later on.

Where our gold goes when it is parted with does not specially concern us, but it is interesting to note that the stock of the metal in European banks is greater by nearly $300,000,000 than it was a year ago. The increase in the Bank of France alone has been about $140,000,000. As France is not a gold producing country, this indicates its position as a creditor nation. This balance is not so much due to an excess of merchandise sold abroad over that purchased abroad as to income from foreign investments. France is the most industrious and thrifty of nations, and it has become a lender and investor in foreign securities on a scale that brings a constant stream of gold to its coffers. At the present time the United States is a debtor on one account and another and consequently is being drawn upon for payments.—New York Journal of Commerce.

AN AGE OF LUXURIES.

There was something quaintly interesting in the remarks of President Eliot at the gathering of the religious education association in Chicago last week. He was discoursing on modern luxuries and remarked that a few years ago, when he was a student at Harvard, the water used in the college buildings was drawn from a pump in the court-yard. There was no illuminating gas on the premises and Dr. Eliot recalled that when the first carpet was introduced there was considerable criticism of what was looked upon by many as a wasteful expenditure. Of course the eminent educator's reference to the few years ago when he was a student was largely facetious. The time to which he refers was something more than a few years ago, but not so long ago as to weaken the comparison between old and new conditions of living. "We don't want," said Dr. Eliot naively, "exactly these old conditions to prevail at Harvard now, but we are opposed to extreme luxury."

But the comforts of today certainly are extreme luxuries when compared to the necessities of a half century ago. In the matter of heating, of lighting, of building, of providing those conveniences which have become a part of the domestic life, the ordinary adjuncts of the modern home are luxuries of which the householder of a century ago could have had no conception. And the same holds true of the college halls and dormitories. Whether life is any better worth living than it was in that day of simple things, may be a subject for brisk argument. It would certainly appear that living is much more comfortable.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Motor Car For a Baseball Team's Use.

The time is coming when the automobile will be used for practically all purposes where a speedy method of transportation over roads of all kinds is desired. A hint of the coming of this time is afforded by the action of the Indianapolis Baseball club in purchasing a twenty-four passenger motor bus. It will be used to carry the players to and from the ball grounds and to and from trains. Its adaptability for other uses—for making trips to nearby towns, for example—is obvious.

CHICAGO DOCTOR HELD AFTER ODD DEATH OF WIFE

The Chicago police are holding Dr. Haldane Cleminson, a prominent young physician, whose wife was found dead in her home after what was reported a visit of burglars. The theory at first was that burglars had chloroformed Mrs. Cleminson and that the drug had caused her death. Later the detectives grew suspicious of conflicting stories regarding the burglar episode and arrested Dr. Cleminson. He was allowed to attend the funeral of his wife under guard and stoutly denied any complicity in the murder, if such it was.

HAIR FROM CHINA.

Fortunately for the American woman, the Chinese custom of shaving the head is still in vogue. But what is the Chinese lady's loss is the American lady's gain. Last year 207,411 pounds of human hair were shipped from Hong Kong alone to the United States, about four times as much as in the preceding year. This hair, brought from the interior of the Heavenly Kingdom to Hong Kong and other ports, is there cleaned, sorted, fumigated and disinfected in accordance with quarantine regulations and shipped to New York, where it is treated so as to change its color and texture and then made into switches, curls and bands with which lovely woman adorns herself.

If the styles should change, if women should decide to be adorned only with their own, instead of with celestial glory, the effects would be soon felt in remote villages of China, and many a poor woman there would find her biennial crop of hair a drug on the market. So close are the ties which bind together distant parts of the earth. And upon so fickle a thing as fashion does the bread and butter of thousands depend.

But fashions change, and who knows but what the time will come when American women will shave their heads, wear pigtails and send their surplus hair to China? Transformations fully as extraordinary as that would be have more than once taken place in fashion.—Boston Globe.

VAGRANT VERSE.

The Sheriff's Report.

We jest went out to git him, and we did—
We trailed him from the sagebrush to the pine;
We seen the long-dead ashes where he's hid
And where he'd cooked his bit of bacon rine.
We found the hoss, where it had fell and died,
But he'd gone on—a tough nut, yes, that's true—
We seen the blood where he had stopped and tied
His coat sleeve round his worn and busted shoe.
We heard his lead, a-singin' past our ears,
Where he stood pat, 'way up a lonely draw;
We smelt his powder, yet it brung no tears,
'Cause wasn't we the Majesty of Law?
We seen his face, his black eyes blazin' hate,
We heard him talk, and in plain view he slid;
The world's some better off, I calkilate—
We jest went out to git him, and we did.

Religion as Handmaid of Health.

The present tendency to cultivate health in cultivating religion is getting many recruits. Even highly conservative clergymen preach sanitation as well as theology. Taking care of the health now forms part of the instruction in convent schools and in private schools which, though nonsectarian, are conducted on a Christian basis. As for the beauty specialists, the first thing they learn is whether the patient lives normally or if certain defects of the skin have not a foundation in the breaking of health rules. The one who cultivates beauty of face and form must live a life near perfection. Leaders of religious thought appreciate the good results apparent from the "religion and health" propaganda.

LARGEST STATUE IN ALL THE WORLD

Colossal Effigy of Victor Emmanuel II Will Grace the Dome of the Capitol.

The bronze equestrian statue of Victor Emmanuel II., intended to surmount the monument to the first king of Italy on the capitol at Rome, has recently been cast. Owing to the huge proportions of the statue, which is the largest in the world, special molds had to be provided for the casting. They were divided into thirteen sections.

An idea of the colossal size of the statue may be formed from the following figures: The king's sword is over twelve feet in length and weighs about 775 pounds. The harness weighs over four tons. Over thirteen tons of metal were used in casting the horse's chest and body, while the head of the king, including the helmet, measures seven feet and weighs 46,250 pounds.

There is room for thirty men inside the hollow body. Its size is unparalleled in history or legend, with the exception of the celebrated wooden horse fabled to have been used at the siege of Troy.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

DID YOU EVER NOTICE—

That after you have listened over and over again in sympathetic mood to the woes of a friend you begin to feel like a hypocrite?

That by and by the slow conviction is forced upon you that you are a hypocrite every time you give the sympathetic ear?

That inevitably a point is reached when you feel a most unholy desire to say to your companion that you don't know of anything that he needs half as much as a good beating up?

That the more you feel so the deeper the wretch goes into the details of his misery and the more desperately he claims your sympathy and your backing?

That the deeper grows your own humiliation in listening and the more he takes it as a salve to his wretchedness?

That you get a reputation for being a good consoler and for giving sweet comfort when all the time you are boiling over with the determination to make an end of it and put in some good lick in the interest of common sense?

TEMPLE OF WORSHIP IS DEDICATED SUNDAY

Lee Street Presbyterians Happy in New Church.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME FOR CONGREGATION

Services Appropriate to the Day Are Held in the Church, Sunday, and Attract Large Audiences—Much Interest Is Shown by Friends of the Church in Its Progress.

The Lee Street Presbyterian church was dedicated, Sunday afternoon. An extremely large number of people turned out and the dedicatory exercises were pleasing.

The new temple of worship adds another to the already large number of beautiful church structures in the city. The building cost $7,650, but the congregation begins worship in its new home entirely free of debt.

The church had it origin in a Sunday-school, started six years ago, which has grown from one of small membership to a school of over 250 members. It was decided last summer to build a church and the first subscription was taken in August of last year. The first shovel of dirt was dug in October by Rev. S. C. Bates, the pastor of the church. Work was rushed along under the supervision of the pastor and J. F. Apt. The structure was completed last week, but a portion had been occupied for some weeks. The church has an active membership of over 100 members. Among the larger donations were $2,000 from the True estate and $1,000 from the Presbyterian board of church erection. The entire balance of the debt was raised at the exercises Sunday.

The program was opened by an enjoyable selection by the orchestra of the First Presbyterian church. This was followed by responsive reading of Psalms. After the regular scripture lesson, Rev. G. M Rourke led in prayer. This was followed by a hymn by the congregation.

Dr. Frank Granstaff, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church, but not engaged in evangelistic work, was the speaker of the day. Rev. Mr. Granstaff spoke feelingly of the occasion and his discourse was heard with interest. Chosing "Ye are—that Ye Should" for his theme, the minister spoke of what a church is and of its mission. He reviewed the work of a church and described it as a place to save souls. He said in his work he had been impressed by the expression, "Go to the believers and come to the unbelievers." The members of a church, he insisted must be pure and sincere and must apply themselves with zeal in the work which is prescribed for the church. The individual, he emphasized as an important factor in the success of the church. Rev. Mr. Granstaff told a story of a business man in a certain city, who had been an official in a church for twenty-five years, and duringthe time, had not been instrumental in the saving of a soul. However, he attended the meetings of the church bodies, both of worship and business, until at one prayer-meeting, the man was suddenly and conclusively imbued with the Spirit. The next day, at his place of business he talked to several employed there, and before long he had brought twelve members into the church, all of whom proved to be equally as inspired and active as was the business man.

A solo by Mrs. S. L. Langley preceded the offering, in which the entire balance of the debt was raised. Dr. Granstaff then rendered the dedicatory prayer. After a hymn by the congregation the afternoon program was closed with a benediction by Rev. Mr. Bates.

The evening services were well attended and an interesting program was carried out. The services were opened with a song by the congregation, followed by regular scripture reading. After prayer a male quartet rendered a pleasing selection. Rev. G. M. Rourke was the evening speaker and delivered an eloquent sermon. An anthem by the Lee Street choir was followed by the closing number and a benediction by the pastor.

The official roster of the church follows:

G. W. Jones, John W. Caldwell and John M. Stone, board of sessions; W E Byers, W. S. Carrier, E. O. DeWeese, R. L. Goetting, H. S. Smart, and Amos Strawser, trustees; J. W. Caldwell, superintendent of the Sunday-school; Miss Emma Mitchell, president of the Christian Endeavor society; Mrs. S. C. Bates, president of the Ladies' Aid society and John M. Stone, president of the Brotherhood.

All of the organizations have been very active in the work of raising funds and much credit is due to their work and the efforts of the pastor.

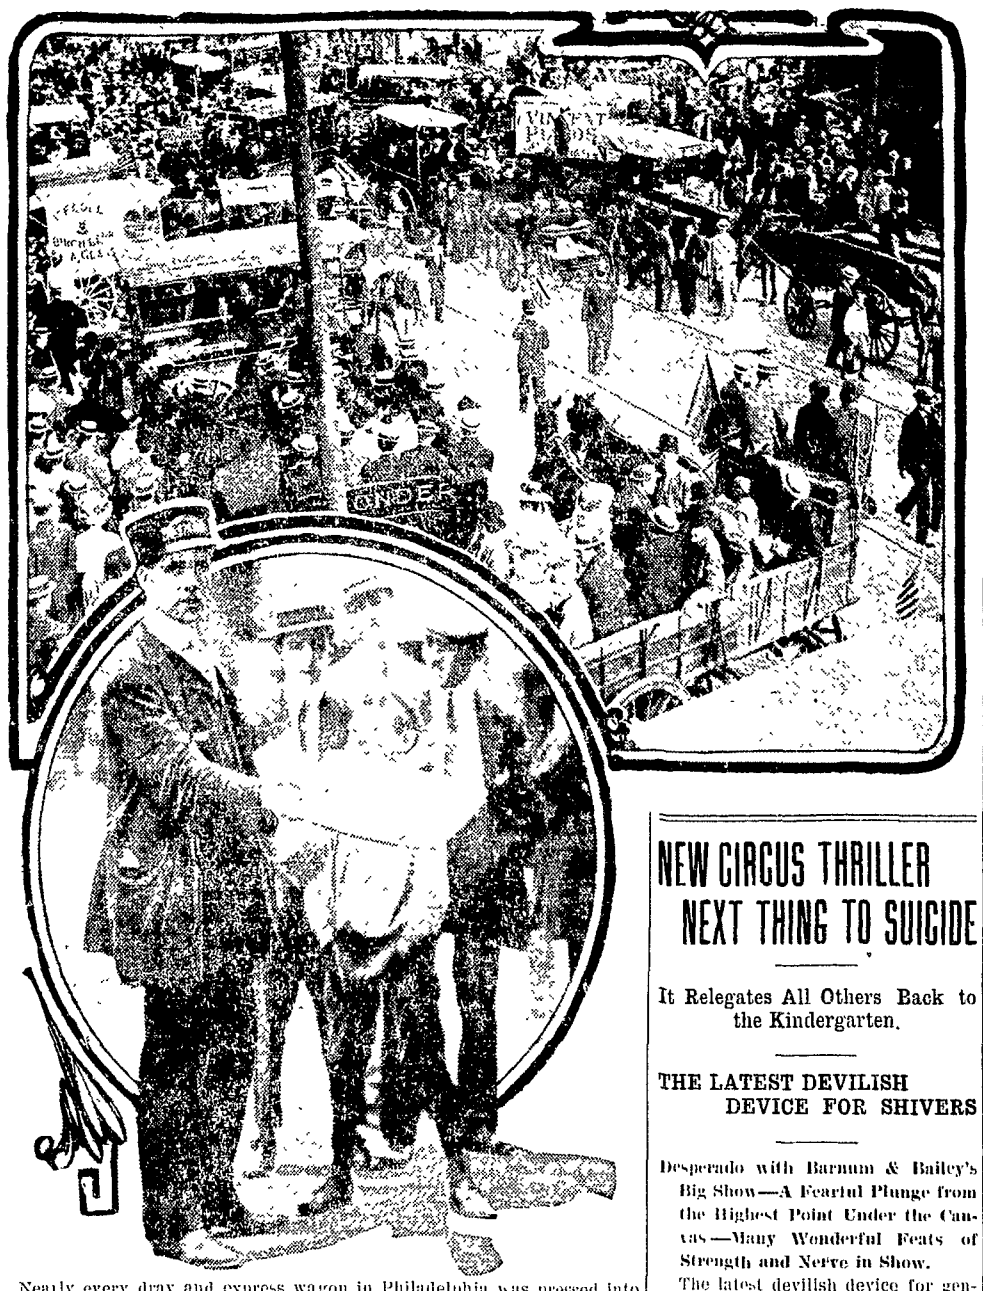
SCENES IN PHILADELPHIA CAR STRIKE; DRAYS USED AS PASSENGER VEHICLES



Nearly every dray and express wagon in Philadelphia was pressed into use as a passenger vehicle when 1,000 street car men went on strike in that city All the street railways in the city except the Willow Grove line were tied up, and draymen reaped a harvest by hauling people to and from their homes and places of business. The strikers sold papers on the streets and in one instance pressed a hand organ into service and paraded near the company's headquarters playing "Wait for the Wagon." Many of the trades unions passed resolutions assessing a fine of from one dollar to five dollars against any of their members caught riding in street cars. Rioting marked the second day of the strike, when the company made a serious effort to move cars. These photographs were taken near the American league ball grounds just after a game, when expressmen were soliciting passengers for a downtown trip.

WHISKY IS WHISKY IF MADE FROM GRAIN

If Made from Other Products It Is Not Whisky.

A QUESTION UNDER PURE FOOD LAW

Lloyd W. Bowers, Solicitor General of the Department of Justice, Goes to the Bottom of the Still and Renders a Decision as to Whisky—Review of the Decision.

Washington, June 8.—Whisky is whisky if it's made from grain.

If it's made from potatoes, apple peels, corn stalks, chips, or any other thing, the booze so derived is not whisky.

This is the gist of a decision rendered today by Lloyd W. Bowers solicitor general of the department of justice, to whom the president referred the puzzling and very important question bearing upon the interpretation of the pure food law.

Bowers, in his opinion, which consumed twenty-seven pages of closely typewritten manuscript, goes to the very bottom of the still, in his investigation, and finds that whisky can be straight, blended, mixed or can be a product of practically pure new spirits, and still be whisky as long as it is made from grain.

The president announced, after receiving the opinion, that before he rendered his decision in the matter, he would give the attorneys for the whisky people, who may wish to contest Bowers' opinion, an opportunity to be heard in reply. Not until after he hears both sides, will he render his final decision.

NEW CIRCUS THRILLER NEXT THING TO SUICIDE

It Relegates All Others Back to the Kindergarten.

THE LATEST DEVILISH DEVICE FOR SHIVERS

Desperado with Barnum & Bailey's Big Show—A Fearful Plunge from the Highest Point Under the Canvas—Many Wonderful Feats of Strength and Nerve in Show.

The latest devilish device for generating thrills and sending cold shivers down one's back is an act devised by a Frenchman rejoicing in the name of Desperado, and at present being exploited by the Barnum & Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth."

The feat and its effect are something that can hardly be adequately described. It is something that must be seen. One thing that must be admired about Desperado is his courage. Many a man would give a great deal if he only possessed the nerve, or what some claim is the utter absence of nerve, in this individual who gayly flirts with death as if it were all a huge joke.

Desperado is a Frenchman and the simplicity with which he surrounds his feat is one of the things that make it so thrilling. He says that he will throw himself from a great height on his chest and live to tell the tale. There is an absence of all mechanism and claptrap. There is nothing veiled. In brief, Desperado ascends to a position directly under the highest point of the canvas dome of the main tent At his feet is a small, narrow skid, slightly curved The man leaps from his great height, flashes like a specter through the air and lands on his chest on the skid. It all looks like the act of a man bereft of reason. But Desperado is in his senses, and the fact that he accomplishes his feat successfully only shows how carefully he has worked it all out.

The complete realization of what the man is attempting comes as he reaches his position with head bobbing against the canvas roof. He certainly is at a great height. What if he miscalculates and should turn in the air? What if he should not hit the chute? What if he does? But what is the use? The man has started. You hold your breath in an agony of suspense that is something awful. It is a fearful thing to see a human being in robust health plunge to destruction. You would turn your head if you could, but you have no such power. You would close your eyes, but they refuse to be closed. The stillness of the huge crowd is stifling. All of this has come to one in an infinitesimal fraction of time. There is a swish Desperado has struck the skid and is on his feet. You see that he is all right and your joy at this and that of your neighbors causes the arena to resound with cheers. It is certainly a wonderful act and one that you will think about long after the circus has left the city.

In the circus are a number of other wonderful acts and a great deal of enjoyable comedy. There are fifty clowns, including buffoons, grimalkins and Pierrots from Europe. They all add to the pleasure of life and help make the circus the hugely enjoyable one that it is this season.

Barnum & Bailey will show here Tuesday, June 15.

Even the tadpole can boast of his social position, having been born in the swim.

CROP STATISTICS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

State Board of Agriculture Reports Are Encouraging.

INDICATIONS POINT TO AVERAGE YIELDS

Wheat Now Predicted To Give Comparative Yield of Seventy-Three Per Cent., in Which It Must Be Considered That ...ere was a Large Shortage in Acreage Seeded.

The following report represents the average condition of the crops and live stock named, as estimated from the returns received from the regular township crop correspondents of the department;

Wheat, prospect compared with an average, 73 per cent.

Winter barley, prospect compared with an average, 70 per cent.

Spring barley, prospect compared with an average, 82 per cent.

Rye, prospect compared with an average, 79 per cent.

Oats, prospect compared with an average, 91 per cent.

Clover, prospect compared with an average, 76 per cent.

Timothy, prospect compared with an average, 83 per cent.; damaged by grub worm, 3 per cent.

Hogs, to be fed for summer markets, 37 per cent.; condition compared with an average, 91 per cent.; spring pigs, number saved compared with an average, 88 per cent.

Sheep, condition compared with an average, 95 per cent.

Lambs, number saved compared with an average, 94 per cent.

During the past month wheat has shown much improvement, and the present prospect is estimated at 73 per cent., compared with an average. Wheat was seeded under most unfavorable conditions, and the earlier reports were discouraging. Since the opening of spring, however, its condition has gradually improved, each month's estimate showing a slight upward tendency. On April 1st its condition was estimated at 62 per cent.; May 1st, 66 per cent.; while, as above stated, the present prospect is estimated at about three-fourths of an average yield per acre. In estimating the probable total yield for the state, due consideration must be given to the short acreage seeded. November last it was estimated that the area seed was approximately 440,000 acres short of the area seeded for the harvest of 1908 and this area has been further reduced by the acreage plowed up this spring. Last year the estimated area harvested was 1,886,960 acres and from this was produced 30,122,919 bushels, or an average yield per acre of 15.9 bushels. On June 1st, 1908, the wheat prospect was estimated at 94 per cent., compared with an average. From these figures it is readily apparent that the coming harvest will be far short of that of one year ago. Reports of damage by joint worm are rare.

Winter barley shows a prospect of 70 per cent., while the prospect of spring barley is estimated at 82 per cent., compared with an average.

Oats generally are in excellent condition and the present prospect is estimated at 91 per cent. compared with an average. A large acreage has been seeded and the harvest should produce a fine yield.

Rainfalls have been frequent the past month, seriously retarding corn planting. No doubt a heavy acreage will be planted. While we quote no figures on corn condition, correspondents generally note the backward tendency of its growth, due to cool, wet weather.

Hog cholera is reported in some sections, but no epidemic of the plague is prevalent at this time.

CONDITION ARISES WHICH NONE HAD FORESEEN

Legal Point Raised Concerning the Boxwell Law.

QUESTION PUT UP TO PROSECUTOR JUSTICE

Can a Marion County Resident Take the Boxwell Examination in Morrow County and Enter the Marion School on the Morrow County Certificate?

Is a Marion county resident, who takes the Boxwell school examination in Morrow county and obtains a diploma, legally entitled to enter the Marion High school?

That is a question which Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice has been called upon to answer, and the prosecutor is delving into the statutes to find a solution. So far, he has been unable to find any law on the subject that will aid him in giving a satisfactory opinion.

The prosecutor does not know the name of the Marion county resident who took the Morrow county examination. All he knows is that the successful applicant is a young woman of this county, who-e tuition in the Marion High school may not be paid by the board of education in her home township on the ground that she did not take the examination in Marion county.

Under the law, the Boxwell examinations all over the state are uniform -that is, the same questions are put to all applicants and the same regulations govern the examinations. A successful applicant, under the law, is entitled to enter High school without another examination, and free of charge, the board of education of the township in which the successful applicant resides to pay the tuition.

The question of whether or not the young woman's diploma has been legally bestowed was put up to Prosecutor Justice by a member of the school board of the township, in which the Boxwell graduate resides.

HIS THRILLING TALE RELATED

Pilot Fisher Tells of Remarkable Experience.

AN AWFUL SPIN OF 16,000 FEET UPWARD

Three Times the Performance Is Repeated.

No Ballast Used in the Descent, Which Is Made Slowly—In 300 Balloon Trips Nothing Like It Occurs—Only One Case of the Kind in Memory of an Aeronaut of Long Experience.

Cleveland, O., June 9.—One of the most thrilling tales ever written of a balloon conquest of the air is found in a telegram received this morning by Ray Long, managing editor of the Cleveland Press, from his friend Carl Fisher, pilot of the balloon, Indiana, whose spectacular flight in the championship balloon race attracted international attention. The story of the flight, told in Fisher's own words, follows:

"The balloon, Indiana, landed at Ruskin, Tennessee, after forty-nine hours and twenty-five minutes of continuous flight. Two previous stops for water were made, however, and we learn now that these stops disqualify the Indiana. The ice cold water when we were burning up was worth it to us.

"Shooting at the balloon was frequent, commencing in Brown county, Indiana, and continued through Kentucky and Tennessee. The gentleman with whom we stopped at our landing in the mountains told us he and his son both went after their rifles to see which one could bust it, thinking it was a circus balloon without passengers.

"The winds generally were very poor, and we only made headway at twelve thousand feet. The heat at ten and twelve thousand feet was intense as a result of reflection from the snow white clouds.

Alarming Descent.

"Near Nashville we had the most thrilling experience of the trip and Bumbaugh says that in over 300 trips he never before had such an experience and has only read of one. There seems to be a general current of air over the river which in some peculiar manner is affected by the currents from over the mountains. At any rate, while sailing along at 800 feet just after fixing up for our night ride, our balloon commenced to spin around and ascend very rapidly. We shot up to 14,000 feet and were almost frozen stiff. Bumbaugh was unable to figure it out, and it was certain death to use the valve to stop our upward flight. White vapor gas poured out of the appendix and things looked serious. At 16,800 feet Bumbaugh opened the valve to release the bag from bursting, but up she went—and then more valve, which seemed to help some. Then we began to descend very slowly. We expected to use all our ballast to break the fall, but it was not necessary, as we rode down on the outer edge of the whirlpool without the dumping of an ounce of ballast.

Second Trip Aloft.

"We were within 400 feet of the ground and feeling better when up we went the second time and repeated the descent.

"This time we went clear down—letting out enough gas to drag on the tree tops and at 5 a. m. we were hanging onto tree tops with our drag ropes and only seven miles from Nashville.

"We had made the circuit of about twenty-four miles three times. The morning wind from the west finaly pulled us out and we were centainly thankful. We had, during the day, two other ascents of the same kind, but less spectacular only taking us up eight and nine thousand feet.

"From Ashland City we could see plainly, at 10,000 feet up, the cesspool near Nashville and a huge column standing at least 18,000 feet and in constant boiling action. It was very beautiful, but no more Nashville ballooning for me.

"I have just wired the Aero Club of America and demanded an official investigation of the claims made by Wade and Morgan of Cleveland. I, personally, think their balloon must have been poorly sewed or varnished, causing leaks. We will spare no pains or money to learn the truth. Have had no sleep for three nights and days and am about all in. Good night.

'Fisher."

The Winners.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9.—The situation in the contest for the Aero club cup for the longest distance flight in the national balloon races which started from here Saturday, has been greatly simplied by the action of Carl G. Fisher, who in a telegram today withdraws his claim to any of the trophies. Fisher says:

"As to accepting the cup of endurance: I am the donor of the cup and do not care to accept it. I consider, however, that our record of forty-nine hours in the air should stand."

The final status of the handicap and distance races, therefore, is:

Handicap race, winner, "Indianapolis," Link of Indianapolis, pilot.

National race, winner, "University City," Berry of St. Louis, pilot. Distance 363 miles.

Endurance cup winner, "The New York," Forbes of New York, pilot. In air thirty-five hours, twelve minutes.

Serious Charges.

The Aero Club of America will also be called upon to settle a charge made by Leo Stevens that the two balloons which he made and both of which landed forty miles from the starting point, had been tampered with. Stevens first charged that the quality of gas furnished the Ohio and Cleveland was inferior but the fact that the University City, the winning balloon, and the Indianapolis, the endurance winner, both filled from the same pipe at the same time, seemed to disprove his charge. Stevens then charged that the balloons were tampered with. The pilots of both balloons, however, have a different view. They say the balloons had defective seams and were poorly made and have shipped them back to Stevens, the maker. The pilots have no complaint against any one but Stevens, but the fact that Stevens makes such a serious charge, has led the owners of the speedway to demand an investigation

Forbes, in the balloon "New York" is the winner of the distance contest in the Indianapolis balloon races. The distance sailed by all the contestants were computed for the Aero club by W. Welch of the signal corps, United States army, and it is upon this computation that the race was awarded to Forbes. The distance sailed by each balloon in nautical miles is announced as follows: A Holland Forbes, balloon New York, 358 miles; John Berry, University City, 329; Albert B. Lambert, St. Louis, 321 miles; Carl G. Fisher, Indiana, 264 miles; Captain Baldwin, Hoosier, 231 miles; Dr. Goethe Link, Indianapolis, 222 miles, C A Coey, Chicago, 208 miles, Forbes covered 411.7 statut miles.

ROGERS WILL NOT CONTEST RIGHT

To Remain at Head of Fire Marshal's Office.

Columbus, O., June 9.—From his home in Cleveland, General W. S. Rogers gave up with a grunt the ghost of a show he had to retain the office of state fire marshal, and Governor Harmon at once set a reply telling Rogers that he, himself, was to blame for the force used in ejecting him.

The governor received a letter from General Rogers, this morning. In it the general stated that under the circumstances he did not consider it necessary at this time to deny the charges that the government made against him as grounds for the removal. After complaining that the governor had used the military power of the state through an appointee of the adjutant general to change the locks on the doors, to force him out, General Rogers told the governor that he would bring suit to test the right, which he still claims, to the office.

HE'S CONVICTED A SECOND TIME

Charles Clark Must Serve Out a Life Sentence.

Detroit, June 9.—For the second time convicted of murder in the first degree, a sentence of life imprisonment must be passed on Charles Clark, for killing Horton Warren, in 1903.

It took the jury on the retrial of the case in Judge Phelan's court late yesterday just thirty-five minutes to find the defendant guilty of killing in the first degree. That means that necessarily under the law he will be sentenced again to life in Jackson prison.

The prisoner showed by his demeanor that he was crushed by the load of evidence against him.

An unusual feature of the trial was Clark's own testimony for himself, when he took the stand in defiance of the fact that the prosecution could then show that he had been several times sent to prison.

BLOODHOUNDS TRAIL A TRIO

Three of the Smith Faction of Feudists

ARE CAPTURED BY AUTHORITIES

Held for Complicity in Attempted Assassination.

It Is Claimed That the Shooting of Former Sheriff Ed Callahan Is Inspired by His Former Wife, Who Is Now the Wife of John Smith. Domestic Trouble Through Her Leads to the Feud.

Jackson, Ky., June 9.—Govan Smith, head of the Smith feudists; his brother, Elisha Smith, and Levi Johnson were late Tuesday captured by a sheriff's posse and held on a charge of complicity in the attempted assassination of former Sheriff Ed Callahan, the feudist.

Bloodhounds on the supposed trail of the would-be assassins, led the sheriff's posse to the home of Govan Smith, where the occupants, fearful of their lives, admitted that the above three men had come there nearly exhausted and had been furnished with horses with which to flee over the mountains to Buckhorn college, a missionary institution. The posse at once took up the pursuit and overtaking two of the fugitives at Squabble Creek, placed Elisha Smith and Levi Johnson under arrest before they could draw their weapons. Govan Smith was captured later on Long's creek.

The officers are now looking for Asbury Spicer, former participant in the Marcum assassination, and John Smith, who eloped with a former wife of Ed Callahan. On information furnished, it is alleged by a relative, the officers charge that it was this woman, who is still the wife of John Smith, that inspired the attempted assassination of her former husband.

Condition Serious.

The condition of Callahan is such that the attending surgeons declare that there is no hope for him, although as a last resort he may be taken to the hospital at Lexington

The feud between the Smiths and Callahan involves Callahan's domestic trouble. Callahan's wife from whom he obtained a divorce, was a sister of the Spicers A year ago last October Mrs Callahan left her husband and it was reported that she had gone to Oklahoma and John Smith was mentioned in the matter.

Smith had been one of Callahan's chief henchmen, but afterward he became the star witness for the prosecution of Hargis and Callahan, whom he accused of planning the assassinations of Cox, Cockrill and Marcum and hiring the assassins.

A result of the trouble between Callahan, the Smiths and the Spicers was the fatal encounter between John Spicer and Callahan a year ago in May, in which Callahan was almost slashed to pieces and Spicer was killed by Callahan's seventeen-year-old son, Wilson. Callahan has two other children, a daughter almost grown, and a seven-year-old boy, James Hargis Callahan, named after his old ally.

WILBUR WRIGHT'S ROOM A MUSEUM

Objects Used by Him Are of Interest in France.

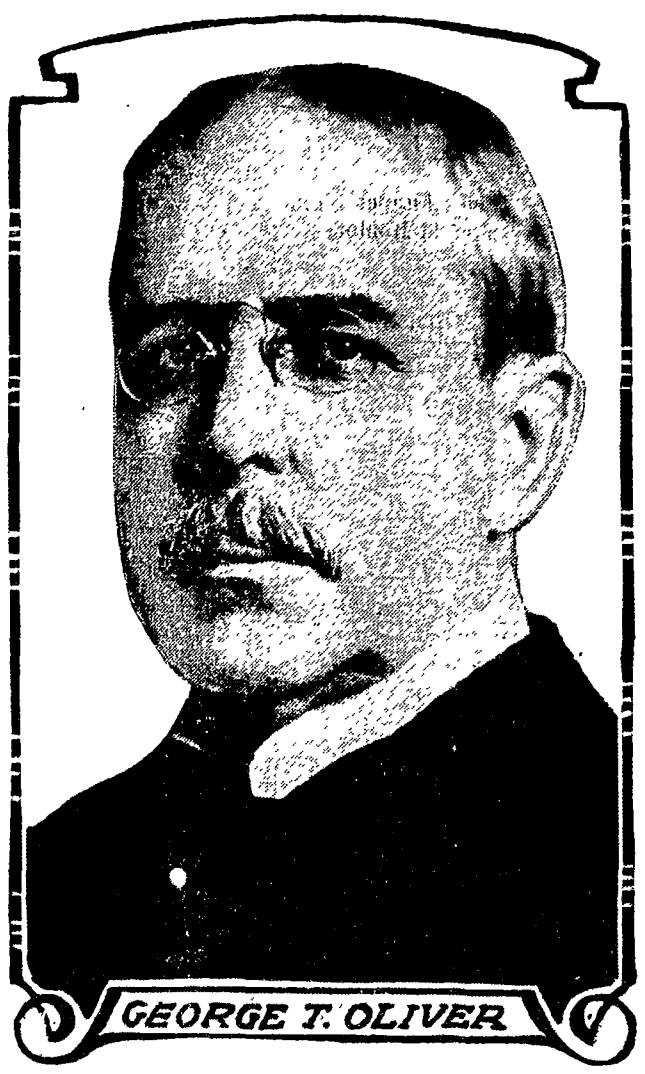
Paris, June 9.—The keeper of the little hotel at Le Mans where Wilbur Wright was a guest during his aeroplane experiments at that place, has fitted up the room in the hotel occupied by Wright as a museum. So great is the fame of the American aviator that even the dishes, knife, fork and spoons used by him are treasured as souvenirs and were placed on display in the exhibition room. The inn keeper charges a small fee for seeing this room and nearly every guest of the hotel is only too glad to take advantage of the opportunity.

WITH THE PUGS.

Ketchel Is Winner.

Philadelphia, June 9. — Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, defeated Jack O'Brien in the third round, thus accomplishing a feat that Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, failed to achieve in six rounds some three weeks ago. The fight was stopped in the second minute of the third round, after O'Brien had been knocked down twice in the second and once in the third, and was almost unable to raise his hands to defend himself.

PENNSYLVANIA SENATOR IN CLASH WITH THE NEVADA MINING LAWS



The indictment of several officers and directors of the Silver Peak Mining company at Goldfield, Nevada, some of whom are prominent residents of Pennsylvania, has caused much comment in financial circles in this city. William Flinn, the millionaire political leader, is president of the company, and George T. Oliver, the newly-elected United States senator from Pennsylvania, is vice president and the largest stockholder in the concern The indictments grow out of bullion tax statements alleged to have been issued by the company. Messrs. Oliver and Flinn declare that they and their associates have spent $2,000,000 in developing mines in Nevada and that they are entitled to consideration instead of being harassed.

THEY DIFFER MATERIALLY

War Secretary Haldane or Lord Roberts Fooled,

OVER THE QUESTION OF A POSSIBLE WAR

Haldane Says the Nation Has Twenty Years

To Perfect Her Defenses, While "Bobs" Is of the Opinion That It Is but a Matter of Days Till Great Britain Becomes Involved in Trouble—Wants Nation To Be Prepared—The Situation.

London, June 9.—War Secretary Haldane and Lord Roberts differ materially as to the outlook for peace or war so far as Great Britain is concerned.

The field marshal places the period at months, and even intimates that it may yet be days, while Haldane insists that the nation will have twenty years to perfect the imperial defense.

Both spoke today before the press conference It had been expected that the war secretary might outline the position of the government, but he did not do so.

After discussing other matters at length he dismissed the foreign situation with the simple statement that the next twenty years will prove the most important in the development of the imperial defense, and intimated that the nation relied materially on her colonies.

Lord Roberts did not take kindly to Haldane's tatements. "It is impossible for us to look forward to a period of twenty years in peace in which we can prepare ourselves. I am inclined to reduce the period to months.

"If you will pay attention to an old soldier I counsel you that the present situation demands the closest attentions. We cannot evade our responsibility nor can we defer action.

"The great question is whether we are prepared to fight now."

POLICE CLUB THE RIOTERS

Order Is Restored for the Time Being,

BETWEEN CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS

Residing in Motherwell Near City of Glasgow.

The Trouble Is Caused by Protestants Taking It into Their Heads To Assault the Occupants of Catholic Homes—Twenty of the Rioters Are Dangerously and a Hundred Slightly Hurt.

Glascow, June 9—Trouble that has been brewing for months between the Catholics and Protestants, of Lanarkshire, is at fever heat today as a result of last night's riotous clash between the two in the town of Motherwell twelve miles southeast of here.

It is not clearly known just what started last night's trouble, but a large open air Protestant meeting was suddenly converted into an anti-Catholic demonstration. The Catholics barricaded themselves in their homes, but the Protestants, with a big numerical advantage, broke into many of the houses and assaulted the occupants. A detail of police was called into action and succeeded after a half hour's clubbing of the belligerents in restoring order for the time being. Twenty of the rioters were dangerously injured and a hundred or more slightly hurt. A renewal of the trouble is imminent, not only in Motherwell, but throughout the county, as the ill-feeling between the sects is general.

The trouble started when traveling Protestant evangelists began working in the county. Then open air meetings, in which they bitterly attacked Catholics and Catholicism, greatly enraged the Catholics.

See a Mirage.

Xenia, O. June 9 -Shortly after sunset, Tuesday evening, dozens of people in this city witnessed a mirage against a bank of gravish clouds on the western horizon, of the buildings of the national military home in Dayton. The images remained clearly visible for some time, disappearing only after the sun had fully set.

STEAMER HITS LOCK IN CANAL

Water Sweeps in Torrents in Soo Channel,

AND ONE VESSEL GOES TO BOTTOM

Serious Accident to Locks on Canadian Side.

As a Result, They Will Be Out of Commission for the Remainder of the Season—Engineer of a Gilchrist Line Freighter Misunderstands Order and Sends Engines Ahead at Full Speed.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 10.—With all the weight of Lake Superior behind it an ungoverned torrent of water is rushing through the $4,000,000 Canadian canal, built to carry vessels around the impassable rapids of the St. Marys river.

The steamer Perry G. Walker of the Gilchrist fleet, upbound, carried away the lower gates of the lock in the Canadian ship canal here. As a result the steamer Crescent City was sunk, the Walker is sinking, and the Canadian Pacific railroad passenger steamer Assinaboia was somewhat damaged.

The Assinaboia and the Crescent City were in the lock, downbound, when the Walker carried away the lower gates. The water rushed out of the great lock, carrying the two ships with it The Assinaboia was not seriously damaged, but the Crescent City stove a hole in her bow and sank at the pier on the American side of the river.

Walker Reaches Dock.

With the lower gates gone, the current carried out the upper gates, and in a moment the river was sweeping through the canal like a millrace, doing enormous damage to its rock bottom. Meanwhile the Walker, in a sinking condition, succeeded in reaching a dock on the American side of the river.

Captain Mosher, when he stepped off his boat, declared his engineer was responsible for the accident The captain said that when he signaled the engineer to back, for some reason he did not obey, but started the engines full speed ahead

Strenuous efforts are being made to shut off the water, but it is now said this will take at least two days. It is believed that the lock will be out of commission the rest of the season.

Emergency Dam.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., June 10.—The last barriers of the great movable emergency dam across the wrecked Canadian canal were driven into place shortly before noon today and the stream that had been rushing at a fifteen-mile clip, taking everything that was not strong enough to resist its power, was reduced to a mere trickle. An immediate investigation of the damage was begun. It is estimated that the damage to the canal, sinking of the Gilchrist liner, Crescent City, and serious smashing of the Canadian Pacific railway passenger liner, Assiniboia, and Gilchrist boat, Walker, will total $500,000. In the meantime the American locks will handle all the traffic.

The Gilchrist liner, Crescent City, is resting on the bottom on the American side with a big hole forward. The Canadian Pacific railway liner, Assiniboia, proceeded to Detour this morning, where it was thought she would have to lay up for repairs.

A more complete examination of her injuries, however, showed that she could continue her journey, so after lightering a part of her cargo proceeded without landing her passengers as expected.

CASE AGAINST TRUST SETTLED

The Warring Sugar Concerns Get Together.

SETTLEMENT TERMS ARE NOT DISCLOSED

Lawyers Refuse To Make Public the Facts,

Until Pennsylvania Court Ratifies the Agreement—Suit Involves Damages in Sum of $80,000,000 Claimed To Be Due Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company from the So-Called Sugar Trust.

New York, June 9.—After being on trial in the United States district court for two weeks, the $30,000,000 suit of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company against the American Sugar Refining company, the so-called trust was settled out of court.

The conditions of the settlement were not made public, and counsel for both plaintiff and defendant declined to discuss the agreement other than to say that an understanding had been reached.

The suit was one of those familiar yet complicated legal moves instituted every now and then by a smaller concern against an alleged monopoly, charging in effect that it had been driven out of business. In this case witnesses testified that Adolph Segal of Philadelphia, controlling power of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, borrowed from Gustav A. Kissel $1,250,000, for which he gave as security 26,000 shares of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, together with a voting trust certificate for the same, which was to run until the repayment of the loan.

Kissel Took Charge.

With the power thus conferred upon him, Kissel, it was alleged, installed himself and three of his clerks as directors of the Independent Sugar company, and having control of the board of directors, he passed a remarkable resolution which declared that the then almost completed refinery, which is said to be one of the most economical ever built, should not be opened or operated until further order of the board.

That resolution, the plaintiff contended, was drafted by John E. Parsons, acting as counsel for the sugar trust, for whom it showed Gustav A. Kissel, the lender, also was an agent.

Messrs. Kissel, Parsons and the three clerks of the former, Twigg, Robinson and Warner, were made co-defendants with the American Sugar Refining company on the conspiracy charge, but on motion of a lawyer appearing specially in behalf of the three clerks, the complaint against them was dismissed.

As to the other defendants, the court ruled, after lengthy arguments by Henry W. Taft for the American Sugar Refining company and for Mr. Parsons and by W. D. Guthrie for the defendant Kissel, that their motion to direct the jury to bring in a verdict for the defendant was not to be sustained.

This ruling by the court brought the announcement from counsel for the minor concern that the further time of the court and jury would only be taken up perfunctorily, because some sort of settlement would be reached immediately. Conferences between counsel were then held, and soon afterward the decision to settle was announced. The details will not be made public until after ratification by the Pennsylvania court that appointed George H. Earle, Jr., receiver of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company If such ratification is not made the case will have to be retried.

HEAVY DAMAGE OF SHEEP KILLING DOGS

State Official Says Flocks Are Being Destroyed.

Columbus, June 9.—Deputy State Auditor A. W. Beatty says that sheep killing dogs are destroying the sheep raising industry in Ohio. He says that the reports each year show a falling off in the industry. The law makes the owner of a dog responsible, but not once in 100 cases does the sheep owner recover. This is because it is difficult to find the dog which does the work and also that the owner is without means. The present mad dog scare is hard on the farmers in a financial way. Those bitten are sent away for treatment and their expenses come out of the sheep killing fund. Because of this there is not enough money left to reimburse the farmers when sheep are killed and they only get a portion of their claims.

A woman nearly always shows up best in an argument when she doesn't know anything about the subject on tap.

SIX WORKMEN ARE ENGULFED

All of Them Are Burned to Crisps,

IN GREAT MASS OF MOLTEN METAL

"Slip" Occurs in Steel Plant Furnace.

While the Force of Workmen Is Gathered About the Furnace, There Comes a Terrific Roar and Great Masses of Metal Spurt from the Furnace, Sweeping Down the Workmen in Front of It.

Martins Ferry, O., June 10.—In an accident here at least six men were burned to a crisp, four fatally injured and 20 seriously injured. Thirty others had narrow escapes.

A "slip" occurred in the furnace of the Wheeling Steel and Iron company. A force of workmen numbering 50 were gathered about the furnace making ready to drill in for a cast. Without warning there was a terrific roar and great masses of molten iron spurted from the furnace, sweeping down the workmen.

Twenty or more were caught in the onrush. Six men are known to have been caught by the hot iron and their bodies burned to a crisp. Fourteen others were badly mutilated. Arms and legs were burned off, and some were showered from head to foot with white-hot metal.

Fragments of four blackened bodies have been recovered. The other two victims will probably never be found. The 20 injured men, some with arms and legs burned off and their bodies terribly burned, are being attended at a hospital.

Some of the injured, after being showered with the molten iron, ran screaming to the Ohio river near by and plunged into the water. They were quickly rescued and sent to a hospital.

JAPAN ADMIRES THINGS AMERICAN

American Girls and American Ideals Are Nice.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 10.—"Japan admires everything American, girls and ideals," said Baroness Uriu, Wednesday, as she left Vassar college, where she graduated in 1880 and where she was the guest of honor yesterday. "You have advanced thirty years in America since I left this country, and yet we in our country have advanced many, many more years."

The little Japanese lady was liberal in her praise of American women and women's colleges.

"The higher education of America has given Japanese women social freedom," said said, "for the married lady in my country today has as much freedom as anywhere else in the world. Today, we, their daughters, please our husbands by wearing western dress, by accepting American ideas."

Before Admiral Uriu left for West Point the baroness presented to the college a large silver bowl, decorated in enamel and hammered relief work. The bowl was given to the baroness by the emperor of Japan as a token of his esteem, and when the emperor heard that the baroness was to visit the United States he caused word to be sent to her that she might give the bowl to her college if she wanted to.

Canada and the Marathon Craze.

"Canada is the birthplace of Marathonitis, and Hamilton is the city of its origin," writes William Hemmingway in Harper's Weekly. "Among the many lovers of outdoor sports in Hamilton about 1890 were a dozen or more young men who used to walk around the bay on winter Sundays when golf and rowing and sailing were impossible. Inevitably the spirit of competition seized upon them. The course was surveyed, and the party began to try to nip a little off the time consumed in walking the distance. R. B. Harris, one of the proprietors of the Hamilton Herald, after training succeeded in beating all competitors, and a go-as-you-please race around the bay was inaugurated by the Herald, in which Harris was beaten by W. R. Marshall. This was the origin of Marathon racing in America, and thus was implanted the germ of Marathonitis, now rampant throughout this country.

C Q D.

"C Q D! C Q D!"
Binns sent it flashing out over the sea
To where'er a ship or a port might be—
"C Q D! C Q D!"
On went the message of peril and fear,
Winging its way to whoever might hear
The call borne out on the ether's thin breath,
A cry of disaster and imminent death.
And, instant, wherever a ship could be found,
Homeward or outward or anywhere bound,
That caught the alarm, it turned in its course
And rushed through the dark with all of the force
Of steam driven speed to rescue and save,
Heedless itself of a possible grave
For it and its crew in the fog covered wave.
And, again, as so oft, out of peril were born
Names that shall live till earth's final morn,
Names of true heroes as great as of old,
The records of daring and honor have told—
Ruspini and Sealby and Ranson and he
Who, fearless, persistent, sent over the sea
That call of distress: "C Q D! C Q D!"

give up her home. He offered her a separation or a divorce and declared that he was furnished evidence for a divorce under the laws of New York. "In March, 1907, Gould tried to prove his wife a bigamist through his attorneys. He dug up, by the aid of the police department, an ex-convict, Sam Woodward, alias "Big" Hawley, but his attorneys would not bring suit."

At the conclusion of Shearn's opening, Mrs. Gould was called to the stand. She gave her name as Viola Catherine Gould, and Gould's attorney admitted the facts in connection with the marriage of the couple. A number of questions as to her manner and style of living were asked, and Nicoll objected to the line of questioning, declaring it was for the purpose of alimony.

A lengthy legal argument followed.

SENATOR DOLLIVER FINDS NEW OCTOPUS

The "Rag Trust" Is the Latest Addition to Collection.

DUTIES ON RAGS TO PROTECT THE TRUST

Senator Warren Finds It Hard To Credit the Existence of a Combine on Rags—A Big Shortage in New Wool—The Waste Injures Wool Market of the Country.

Washington, June 9.—The "rag trust" is the latest addition to the list of predatory corporations. Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, discovered the new octopus and told the senate about it Tuesday. He declared that the prohibitive duties on rags carried by the Aldrich bill were mainly for the benefit of such a trust.

Senator Warren, of Wyoming, could hardly credit the existence of a combine on rags. Dolliver retorted that he had noticed a trade journal's reference to the American Wool By-products company as the "rag trust," and said that the names of the directors were given.

The argument of the Iowa senator in favor of low tariff on wool was based on the ground that not enough wool is produced to give each person one suit of woolen clothes a year.

The shortage of new wool made the use of the old wool necessary, and he thought that it ought to be provided cheaply.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, said that every pound of waste imported takes the place of a pound of wool, and to that extent injured the American wool grower.

OLD MAHONING REMAINS DAMP

Votes Wet by Large Majority Wednesday.

COUNTRY DISTRICTS VOTE AGAINST BOOZE

But the City of Youngstown Is Very Moist.

The Majority of 706 Secured by the Anti-Saloon People Outside the City Is Wiped Out by a Wet Majority of Over 2,000 in Youngstown, Every Ward of Which, Save One, Goes Wet.

Youngstown, O., June 10.—Anti-saloon forces in Ohio suffered defeat when Youngstown, with 80,000 inhabitants, and the remainder of Mahoning county, voted in special election to retain the saloons.

The vote in the 84 city and county precincts was: Wet, 11,232; dry, 9,263; wet majority, 1,969. In the county, where much was expected by the anti-saloon forces, only 706 majority was secured. Only one ward in the city, the Fourth, gave a dry majority. It went anti-saloon by 59 votes.

Not Discouraged.

Columbus, O., June 10.—Wayne B. Wheeler, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, declared that the defeat of the temperance forces in Mahoning county would not discourage the league in the prosecution of its proposed campaign in other populous counties. Elections will be held next in Montgomery and Summit counties, he said, but probably not before fall.

"What about Columbus?" he was asked. "We will try it here when we perfect an organization and a poll shows we have a chance," he said.

"At Youngstown we had a good many odds to face," he continued. "The chairmen of the Republican and Democratic committees had been retained by the liberal interests, and they had the benefit of the political organizations. There are 32 different nationalities in Mahoning county. Because of the diversity of their languages we could not get our workers to them, and we never knew just what some of them were going to do at the election. We will keep right on and establish a good organization at Youngstown, and won't give up until we drive the saloons out of Mahoning county."

A vein of lead and zinc ore has been discovered on the grounds of the School of Mines at Plattville, Wisconsin, and will be opened up by the students.

Foes of the Ships.

Quoth the Storm: "I used to beat them
To a grave beneath the brine,
But their hulls are builded stouter,
And their bones no longer shine
On the strands where once I cast them,
And the prey no more is mine."

Quoth the Rock: "I used to gash them
As they crossed my hidden knife,
But their maps have got me charted,
And I wage no more the strife.
Now they sail with safety past me,
And I cannot take a life."

Quoth the Fog: "I used to wrap them
Shut from sound or sight or aid,
But they send their wireless summons
Through the all-that-I-have laid,
And the ships from miles come helping,
And my snare is harmless made."

THEY DON'T CHERISH OPINIONS OF BRYAN

Attitude of Some of the Democratic Senators.

BRYAN ADVISED TO MIND HIS BUSINESS

A Display of Indignation Follows an Attack Made by Bryan on Seventeen Democratic Senators in the Commoner—Some of the Comments of Various Senators.

Washington, June 9.—A number of Democratic senators yesterday told William Jennings Bryan to mind his own business, and to keep to himself any criticisms he may have, as to their attitude upon the tariff bill. They renounced him as a leader, and said that they don't care a fig for his opinion anyway.

The occasion for this display of indignation was the attack made upon seventeen of them in the current issue of the Commoner for having voted to put a tax on lumber, in opposition to the declarations of the Democratic platform on that subject.

"Who gave Bryan the right to say who is, and who is not a Democrat?" demanded Senator Tillman scornfully. "I am not worrying about what he or any one else says. I answer only to the people of my own state. They will attend to me if I am not doing right. I am against free raw material and believe that such a policy is not good Democratic doctrine."

"After following Mr. Bryan for twelve years to defeat and disaster," commented Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, "I don't see what right he has to dictate to us in the senate. I have only to answer to the people of North Carolina, and care absolutely nothing as to what Bryan thinks or writes about me."

"It appears to me," said Senator Smith of Maryland, "that Mr. Bryan should give the Democrats in congress an opportunity to work out the salvation of the party. He should at least wait until the bill is passed before he begins to attack the members of his party in congress."

Senator Bailey made his retort late Monday on the floor of the senate, calling attention to the fact that Mr. Bryan himself, when a member of the house, had voted against a bill to put into effect a plank of the Democratic platform favoring the repeal of the law imposing the tax of ten per cent, on the circulation of state banks. These and similar comments seem to indicate that Bryan is losing his influence over other leaders of the party.

REMARKABLE TRIP MADE BY A DOG

Travels from Kentucky to Arkansas — Swims Two Rivers in Its Travels.

In a letter recently received at Lexington, Ky., by a member of the National Fox Hunters' association Judge A. Floyd Huff of Hot Springs, Ark., reports the return of his famous fox-hound Seminole, which was lost during the division field trial at the annual meeting of the association at Crab Orchard Springs, Ky., last November.

Judge Huff reports that the hound reached his home near Hot Springs bleeding from all four feet and almost starved to death from the long trip. In making the trip from Kentucky to Arkansas the hound was forced to swim the Mississippi and Arkansas rivers and to cover a distance of over 600 miles. The most remarkable part of it is that the dog was shipped to Kentucky from Massachusetts and had never been in Hot Springs.

Baseball Symptoms.

When you awake at break of day
And leap with vigor from the hay
And feel the world is, in a way,
Prolific in its beauties;
When you are bending o'er your work
And in your bosom there will lurk
A notion that you ought to shirk
Such most unpleasant duties;
When signboards are repainted and
The moving van throughout the land
Is ruling with despotic hand
And charging out of reason;
When you discard your overcoat
And in the sunshine stand and gloat—
If you're a loyal fan you'll note
The coming of the season.

When practice games are played each day
And exhibitions, too, hold sway
And all the managers will say
They've got the aggregation;
When Easter fashions are displayed
And girls in peekaboos arrayed
Upon the sidewalks promenade
In idle conversation;
When pitching wings are working fine
And all the boys have got in line
And there are no holdouts to sign
Or show a trace of treason,
You greet your pals and gayly say:
"This surely is the life, that's gay!
Our boys will have a walkaway
And win the rag this season."

Although it may appear premature, now is the time to do your early Christmas shopping.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer writes editorially on "Music, a Misdemeanor." It appears they have graphophones and phonographs in Cleveland also.

We don't credit these stories to the effect that Colonel Roosevelt runs no danger on his hunting expedition. If the animals are as tame as some of these fellows hold out, any night a hippopotamus or rhinoceros is liable to roll over on him as they sleep about a common camp-fire.

What a contrary old world this is, anyway. Here Germany is building up her navy purely in the interest of peace, as the Kaiser tells us, and over in England they are throwing fits and threatening to go to war about it.

June appears to have followed May in the latter's nefarious practice of insisting upon giving us regulation Baptist picnic weather.

It must worry Mr. La Follette when he stops to think what that three-day speech would have brought him in when broken up into Chautauqua circuit lengths.

No doubt it's a beautiful medal, but had France been a close student of the San Francisco municipal methods, possibly she would have presented the Golden Gate city something not so easily toted away.

In future years the 75,000 babies born in Texas may be able to square themselves by pointing out that it was a matter over which they had no control.

If each of the 600 indictments found against former Server Adam J. Stoll, of Sandusky, means a crooked job, we can understand that he did mighty little for some time past aside from stuffing payrolls.

"I have just been looking at pictures of the street cars wrecked as a result of the strike in Philadelphia last week," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today. "In these strikes, you may observe, labor always has one proposition on capital. It doesn't suffer loss for property destroyed."

There are drawbacks about holding one of these king jobs. Any morning a fellow holding one is liable to wake up and find on his doorstep a diplodocus with the compliments of Andy Carnegie attached, and then it's up to him to worry for a week or two to decide whether it's an instrument intended for driving tacks or cracking nuts.

There doesn't appear to be anything to prevent the British naval expansionists from playing the German scare for all it is worth.

The Japs, whose war experience is recent, is letting the other fellows build the airships while they are building airship destroyers.

It's mighty hard to understand how a man can remain a pessimist after learning that aeroplanes may be purchased by next season as low as $7,500.

According to the Ohio State Journal, a man by the name of Fprllotosqely was robbed down there of nine dollars. No nine-dollar robbery will justify the wear and tear on a newspaper office that a name like that will cause.

Another objection to the presidential job is that no sooner do you get comfortably seated in the chief executive's chair than some one you would rather not have the world look upon as your friend and adviser comes up with the claim that he "made" you.

A Kansan says his state was a howling wilderness sixty years ago, which goes to show that nothing but the timber has been extracted during the passing years.

We never exactly fancied the idea of roasting people alive at the stake until we began to read the repeated cases of burglars toasting the feet of women and children with matches or candles.

Senator Beveridge says many things are cheaper in London. They are, Albert, but the people generally haven't money to buy them. And members of parliament are not paid $7,500 per annum with office rent and clerk hire furnished.

SALUTING THE FLAG AND THE NATIONAL SONG

From an editorial in the Ohio State Journal we clip the following paragraph taken from the Springfield, Massachusetts, Republican:

The mass of our people have not learned to uncover when the flag goes by. When our supreme magistrate comes, the president, men uncover in his presence. It is for them to remember that the stars and stripes are supreme over all presidents, token of the national majesty, emblem for which men have gladly died, the symbol of national devotion and service. Next year, and whenever the flag is carried by troops of the state or the nation, let us uncover.

It is an admonition to be widely circulated. Every school teacher should clip it and teach the lesson in the schools. We are not lacking in patriotism, but we are scant in reverence. We have an abundant love of country, but are lacking in the expression of it that is often made beautiful in other lands.

Colonel George B. Christian, president of the Memorial day exercises, touched on this subject from a slightly different point of view, though none the less important. He asked how many in the large audience assembled, a Memorial day audience, could repeat the words of the Star Spangled Banner. Practically not one. Yet it is our national song. Then the colonel related how a young American boy, recently become a resident of Canada, could reel off "God Save the King" without a moment's hesitation. Few Americans can sing all the words to good old America. Fewer still, in the average audience, readily rise when the national song is played or sung. Ordinarily there are a few to rise, and others then follow suit, half wondering why, and the spectacle is often worse than it would be if none rose at all. It is beautiful to stand, reverent and thrilled, when the strains of the Star Spangled Banner stir the heart. It is good to uncover in patriotic deference to the flag. It is worth while to promote the symbols of devotion to country, reverence for authority, and love for the nation. When the national songs are sung every American ought to join in, uttering every word understandingly and feelingly, instead of humming a few words in indifferent submission. We should hear them oftener on public occasions, the national songs should be repeated in the schools until it is impossible for any child to ever forget. We should hear them oftener in Sunday-school and church, for there is no real love of God unattended by love of country and the acknowledgment of sovereignty of the law. Church and schools and citizens should catch up the lesson, and teach and practice. Let us fill the American breast with more reverence and deference and make patriotism a hope and a joy as well as the inspiration of defense.

We are reminded of the striking satire portrayed in Blanche Bates' rendition of the "Girl of the Golden West." The cowboys, rough and ready westerners, miners and citizens in her school start to sing the "Star Spangled Banner," fail miserably, and the stolid Indian buck and squaw finish in as rare a duet as ever heard on American soil.

We have heard the story told, and vouched for, that a party of Americans were fellow passengers with a number of Canadians on one of the palatial like steamers of the northern lakes, on a beautiful moonlit night, when emotions stirred the travelers to song. The Canadians sang "God Save the King" with spirit; the Americans started on "America," flunked after the first stanza, and the blasted Britishers finished the song for them. And that was not so very long ago. It ought never to occur again. More patriotic song, more deference for the flag, more patriotic expression will warm the American heart and add more glory to the stars and stripes.

The old rule is still doing business at the old stand. The $125,000 estate left by the poet, Swinburne, was inherited by him.

Governor Harmon is having trouble convincing Bill Finley, A. M., that a degree from Ada is as good as an appointment as oil inspector.

Having massacred "only" 4,000, the Turks can't understand why the outside world is making so much out of the "incident."

Ex-Fire Marshal Rogers had no difficulty whatever in discovering who was responsible for the "fire."

THE SECOND CONCERT OF BAND'S SERIES

Baker's Band Entertains a Large Audience.

GEORGE W. BAKER A PLEASING LEADER

An Excellent Program of Eight Numbers Is Rendered—Miss Dena Caryl Metsker, of Columbus, Is the Soloist—Every Number Is Well Received—Many Encores Given.

Baker's band gave the second of its 1909 series of concerts at the Grand opera-house Tuesday night, and in spite of the inclement weather, the attendance was large. And it was an enthusiastic, and appreciative audience, that listened to the rendition of the varied and beautiful program of classical and popular numbers. The applause was unstinted and the big band was compelled to answer a number of encores.

As a leader, George W. Baker demonstrated his fitness. There is nothing fantastic or sensational about him as he stands before his band. In the words of a gallery critic, "He don't cut any monkeyshines; he's as graceful as you find 'em."

Every swing of the leader's baton, every wave of his hand, every motion of his tall body, seemed to be in perfect harmony; the musicians looked more at him than they did at their music sheets.

"March Militaire" was the first number on the program "Peter Schmoll," an overture, followed. Each number was generously applauded.

Miss Dena Caryl Metsker, of Columbus, a soprano of really wonderful power, sang "In Rose Time." She responded to an encore and sang "In Spring Time," in German. Mrs. Griselda Davis-Dombaugh gave the piano accomplishments.

Probably the most pleasing number was the "Peer Gaint Suite" The three companion pieces were delightfully rendered, and closed the first part of the program.

The second part was opened with a selection "Don Carlos," followed by the intermezzo, "Kisses."

Miss Metsker sang, "A Love but a Day," and its companion piece, "The Years at the Spring," Miss Metsker sings with all her heart and soul; her voice is pure, well-rounded, distinct. She is, in short, an artist of song.

The program of eight numbers was closed with a Hungarian fantasia, and as the curtain fell the applause was prolonged.

EFFORT TO STAMP OUT "BLACK HAND" SOCIETY

Men Arrested Here Are Taken to Toledo.

MUST ANSWER TO SERIOUS CHARGE

Are Charged with Attempt To Extort $10,000 from John and Charles Amicon, of Columbus—Other Arrests Made—Some of the Crimes Laid to the Door of Society.

The raid by the postoffice inspectors on a suspected "Black Hand" headquarters here, Tuesday afternoon, was only one of the results of the efforts of the United States government to stamp out the extortion which has been practiced in central Ohio upon wealthy Italians, by a band of Sicilians said to have been connected with the Mafia and with similar organizations in this country and Italy.

The Italians arrested here, Tuesday, were taken to Toledo, and will be prosecuted before the United States court for an attempt to extort $10,000 from John and Charles Amicon, Columbus fruit dealers.

For months the Amicon brothers have received demands for the payment of the money and an effort was made last January to force its payment by threats of violence and a dynamite bomb, around which a letter was wrapped, was found in the yard in the rear of the home of John Amicon.

A large number of Italians throughout the state are believed to have paid tribute to the gang. In some instances amounts ranging around $1,000 were secured, but the victims refuse to confirm the report that they contributed through fear of the vengeance of the Mafia.

Postoffice Inspectors Oldfield, Hosford and Hutches and F. P. Dimiaio of the Pittsburg Pinkerton office, who has succeeded in breaking up a similar band of Italians in Pennsylvania, were here Tuesday and arrested Salvatore Lima, whom the postoffice authorities believe has acted as the leader of the band, and secured the larger part of the money extorted. Others arrested here were Salvatore Rizzo and Salvatore Battaglia.

Other inspectors at Dennison, Ohio, arrested Antonio Vicrio.

At this place the authorities secured two sacks of mail and a number of books, which it is believed will aid the government materially in the prosecution of the cases against those arrested and lead to other arrests in this city and other parts of Ohio.

It is also believed that the band is responsible for the mysterious death of a number of Italians in Ohio, Antonio Rizzo, of Cincinnati, died a few weeks ago after eating a banana given to him by a stranger, after he had refused to give the "Black Hand" $1,000. It is supposed the banana was poisoned.

The branch of the order which the authorities are now gathering in is said to have been known as the "Society of the Banana."

A confession is said to have been made by one of the men arrested here, and opened up new lines of work for the postoffice authorities.

The Local Situation.

Intense excitement has been caused in Marion as the result of the unearthing of what is supposed to be the headquarters of the "Black Hand" society. This city is practically the fountain head of the society, which has been sending letters over the country making demands from prosperous merchants for large sums, it is charged. In these letters death is threatened if the money is not paid over. The letters in most instances require the money to be sent to the address, Z. M. Y., general delivery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Since the arrest of Salvatore Lima, here Tuesday, two arrests have been made. Joe Rizzo, the other Italian arrested Tuesday, was later released as it was his brother who was wanted. Tuesday evening Salvatore Battaglia and Salvatore Rizzo were arrested by Inspectors J. F. Oldfield, E. F. Hutches and R. M. C. Hosford at their rooming place above the meat-market of Edward Fergus, on north Main street. The inspectors were accompanied by Officer Cusic, who took the men to the county jail. Their grips and every portion of their apartments were thoroughly searched and a large bundle of letters and books taken in charge by the inspectors. It is believed that these contain information that will establish the guilt of the men as belonging to the society here, of which Salvatore Lima, now at the city prison, is supposed to be the leader.

Inspector Charles Holmes states that the proof found against the gang arrested here is convincing that they have worked their scheme successfully on many Italians, principally well-to-do Sicilians. That they meant business in making their demands is almost certain. Fred Cicanciolo, a Cincinnati fruit dealer, recently received a letter demanding $10,000 from him on penalty of death to himself and family. He paid no attention to the demand and a few days later a bomb was exploded in his front doorway, but no person was injured. A saloon adjoining was wrecked. Joseph Annarino, another Cincinnati fruit dealer, was requested to turn over $10,000 or his child would be kidnapped. The Cincinnati postoffice inspectors declare that the writing in this letter and the paper is the same as in the letters known to have been written from Marion.

The men now under arrest here talk but little and express ignorance as to the cause of their arrest. The firm of Crissinger & Guthery, which has represented the Lima brothers in business dealings, has been acting in their behalf, but has not secured an outline of the case and has taken no action of any kind.

It is declared by the inspectors here, Tuesday, that Salvatore Lima is the leader of the organization and that there is little evidence that he divided the spoils with any person. It is understood that at the call of Lima, conventions were held in this city, at which gatherings reports were made of the countrymen on whom demands would be made. It is said that members of the society from every section of Ohio, Pittsburg and other points in Pennsylvania attended these meetings.

It is believed that most of the letters written to Ohio merchants were written in this city and mailed in Pittsburg, being passed through the hands of a number of confederates. It is claimed by the inspectors that ink and paper found at the store of Lima brothers, is identical with that used in making a number of the demands for money. F. P. Dimaio, Pittsburg superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, has been working with the inspectors and assisted in making the arrests in Marion. He probably has more knowledge of the operations of the lawless Italian societies in America than any person outside the band. He conducted the work which resulted in the breaking up of a gang in Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, a year ago, sending over thirty to the Western penitentiary for terms of from three to ten years. In a recent raid of the Pittsburg headquarters, twenty-one arrests were made.

Several other Italians associated with the gang in Marion, have skipped out. Antonio Lima, father of the Lima now in jail here, was supposed to be in Upper Sandusky, Tuesday. A relative from this place is known to have communicated with him over the long distance telephone, but when he was looked for at that place it was learned that he had skipped out. Several others cannot be found who are wanted by the inspectors while the absence of a few more foreigners from the city makes it appear that the society here had a large membership.

The inspectors who were in Marion, Tuesday, have been working on the case of running down the gang for about eight months. It is understood that not more than eight weeks ago they had things well rounded up in Marion, but were waiting developments to secure better evidence against the men whom they suspected. Arrests have been made at Dennison and Columbus, and Wednesday, Charles Dictario was arrested at Bellefontaine by two of the inspectors who went from here to that place, Tuesday evening. It is stated that Dictario had papers in his possesssion much the same as those found at Lima's place here.

G. S. Wilcox, a representative of the Associated Press, who came down from Chicago, Wednesday, made an effort to secure a photograph of Lima but he refused to stand before the camera. United States Marshal Chandler wired Chief Cornwell and Sheriff Stark, Wednesday, stated that he would send a deputy after the prisoners that afternoon.

Whether or not any letters making demands for money have been received in Marion is not known. If there have been any, they have not been made public, but it is not believed that any merchants in this city were worked on by the gang as their demands were made in the larger cities.

The papers and books secured at the Lima store by the inspectors, Tuesday, are being carefully inspected at Columbus.

Local Italians are not inclined to talk about the arrest of the alleged "Black Hand" suspects. Charles Storaci, who conducts a small fruit store, on north Main street, admitted, when seen, Wednesday, that he had received two threatening letters. "That was four month ago," he said. "I pay no attention. One told me to get out of town, but me—me no afraid."

The other letter, Storaci said, warned him about his failure to attend church after his marriage to an American.

In neither letter was money demanded.

Asked if he knew anything about a "Black Hand" society, Storaci merely smiled and shrugged his shoulders.

When the postoffice inspectors, accompanied by the town marshal, went to arrest Augustina Marfisi, a fruit dealer at Dennison, Wednesday, on "Black Hand" charges, he put up a fight and was shot at several times by the marshal before he was captured.

Since the arrest of the alleged "Black Hand" band at various points in Ohio within the last twenty-four hours, numerous rumors have gained circulation to the effect that these men participated in the assassination of Petrosino, the New York detective, in Italy, a few months ago. One rumor named Vicario as the assassin. Postoffice Inspector Oldfield, who conducted the investigation which caused the arrests, pronounced all these rumors as absolutely groundless.

"We have found nothing in any of the letters confiscated by others to connect any of these men with the Petrosino murder," said Inspector Oldfield. "Some of the letters, however, were from Permine Imerse, the town in which Petrosino was murdered, and mentioned his presence there and his assassination, but we do not suspect any of these men with participation in that crime. The crime was mentioned just as a person would include any other news from home."

The Coils Tighten.

arrested here and one in Dennison, following the raid on Sam Lima's store here, postal inspectors have placed in custody five other foreigners suspected of complicity in the recent extensive blackmailing operations in Ohio and neighboring states. At least ten more are being sought by the federal officials.

The present plan is to base all the prosecutions on a conspiracy to extort $10,000 from John Amicon, the wealthy Columbus wholesale fruit dealer. The cases will be tried before United States Judge R. W Taylor, probably in Toledo, but possibly in Cleveland. District Attorney William Day will prosecute them.

All of the postal inspectors and other federal officials who have assisted in running down the gang will meet in Cleveland Saturday morning for a conference with District Attorney Day. The evidence will be gone over and a definite plan of action will be mapped out.

Columbus Man Arrested.

Inspector J. F. Oldfield, who has directed the Black Hand work here, and T. J. Huey, deputy United States marshal, went to the home of Sevario Ventola, No. 324 east Spring street, Columbus, and arrested him on a charge of using the mails, in conspiracy attempting to extort $10,000 from John Amicon of that place. The affidavit was sworn to by Inspector Oldfield. Ventola was locked in the Franklin county jail for the night. He will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner A. H. Johnson. He is expected to plead not guilty.

In the private office of Postmaster H. W. Krumm of Columbus, Inspector Oldfield, Postmaster Krumm and other officials, with an interpreter, went over the mass of letters and documents captured in the different raids. All available space in the rooms was covered with the immense quantity of evidence.

Beyond a declaration that the investigation was tightening the coils about those in the Black Hand, the officials refused to discuss the revelations of the interpreter. The names of many of the victims and the amounts paid are being revealed to the authorities, but for the present this information will not be given out.

A hurried examination of all the material now in the hands of the inspectors will be made before the Cleveland conference Saturday. As fast as possible translations will be made of these documents, which are considered of importance. All hearings before United States commissioners of the Italians arrested will be postponed as long as possible, to give opportunity for the work of the interpreter. It is probable that the results of his work will first be made public through his appearance on the stand in the hearings.

Two Nabbed in Cleveland.

In Cleveland, United States marshals arrested Guiseppi and Giacomo Nuzzo, brothers, operating a commission house, as members of the Marion gang, on affidavits sworn to by Inspector E. F. Hutchess, who went to Cleveland, taking all of the letters making Black Hand demands in the hands of authorities, for use in making the affidavits against the conspirators arrested here. Their house was raided and many letters confiscated.

Augustino Marfisi was arrested in Dennison. He attempted to escape, and was brought to a stop by a shot from an official's revolver. He was placed in jail and was taken to Canton Thursday, for a hearing before United States Commissioner Whiting. He returned about two months ago from Italy, where he said he went because of the illness of his mother. Before he left Dennison Barney Boneti sold his Dennison fruit store at a sacrifice and fled to Italy to escape Black Hand vengeance. He was murdered while Marfisi was abroad, and an attempt will be made to connect Marfisi with the crime.

For many weeks government agents have been watching the Lima store here and the other places raided. Plans of the Lima store and living quarters have been in their possession since March, procured, it is said, through a former friend of the leader. The gang would have been broken up two months ago, but District Attorney W. R. Day, of Cleveland, who will try the cases, probably in Toledo, believed that there was not sufficient evidence to secure conviction.

Deputy United States Marshals A. F. Owens and B. J. Wagner, of Toledo, took Sam Lima, Sam Rizzo and Sebastian Batagalia from here, last evening, to Toledo, where they will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Gaines. The prisoners were handcuffed to the marshals and closely guarded.

According to the inspectors who have been working on the case, the Black Hand organization in the United States is the old Mafia under a new name, with a much better system for concealing their movements.

Every man's view of this world is better for his being blind to some of it.

- August Marfisi, Dennison.

- Salvatore Ventola, Columbus.

Claiming to be the son of a Sicilian nobleman, mayor of the province of Palermo, a business partner of Senator Felipe, of the Roman senate, Salvatore Lima, one of three Italians arrested here, charged with using the United States mails to defraud, was released at Toledo on $2,000 bond by United States Commissioner Gaines Thursday. Bond wa sfurnished by Tony Cangamillo, a local wealthy fruit dealer and a boyhood friend of the accused.

Salvatore Rizzo and Joseph Batagad, known here as Battaglia, the other accused of "Black Hand" relationships, failed to furnish $2,000 bond, and are held in jail at Toledo. All pleaded not guilty, and waived preliminary examination.

Their friends claim that business jealousy on the part of Columbus fruit dealers is the cause back of the arrests.

Ten Italians and Sicilians are closely guarded in the jails of cities in the various sections of the state as the result of a crusade led by the postoffice authorities against the perpetrators of Black Hand and Mafia schemes of extortion and intimidation throughout the Middle West. The latest arrests were made in Cleveland Wednesday night when the Nusso brothers, peddlers, fell into the clutches of postoffice authorities and Pinkerton men.

The confiscation of a mass of correspondence led the federal authorities to believe the Buckeye state is the clearing-house for Black Hand and Mafia operations in the principal cities of the United States, and they are following a well-marked trail that may lead them to the slayers of Petrosino, the New York detective, who met a foul fate in his native land last spring. While there is yet no evidence to connect the prisoners with the plot to kill Petrosino, the postoffice inspectors would be surprised at nothing, so startling have been the revelations of the three-days crusade in Ohio.

From the seaboard to the Missouri river, and from Canada to Mexico, the operations of the Ohio Mafia gang are shown to have extended with amazing evidence of success.

The federal officers are, today, convinced their chase has only begun and it is intimated that inspectors from other post districts will be called out to assist in a crusade that will sweep the entire country. The belief that the societies of Black Hand and Mafia are myths, will be dispelled when the prisoners are brought to trial, the officers contend.

The confiscated letters in the hands of the postal authorities, the inspectors claim, would convince the most skeptical person that both societies are thoroughly organized and operate along well defined plans with but one purpose in view. The letters so far examined are from members of the societies in Cleveland, Pittsburg and Chicago, addressed to victims in Cincinnati and Columbus. They bear the same emblems, stamped upon the same watermarked paper and are written, apparently, by the same person.

The plan in each case seems identical. In the first instance a threatening letter is sent to the victim from an Ohio town. If this threat to kill or dynamite a house brought no response, a second letter is sent from Pittsburg and finally another from Chicago.

The money thus extorted, it is said, was distributed among members of the gang during meetings held in some Ohio town at stated periods. According to the postal authorities, a distribution of booty was made in Bellefontaine a few weeks ago and within a few hours $2,000 was sent to Italy through the mails.

Chief Inspector A. F. Holmes of the postoffice department is directing the state-wide crusade. He is assisted by Inspectors E. F. Hutchess, W. L. Day, United States district attorney; Marshal Chandler and other inspectors and Pinkerton agents who have been active in Black Hand raids in Pennsylvania.

Further conferences are being held at the postoffice in Cleveland, and while the inspectors will not give out any definite information, it is understood that more arrests will be made in the Forest City.

The New York police and secret service men stated, Thursday, that the arrest of the alleged Black Hand operators in a number of Ohio cities have given no clue to the murderers of Detective Petrosino, as it was thought they would. The police have returned from a questioning of the Ohio prisoners and they say they are convinced that they have nothing to do with the gang in New York that is supposed to have been responsible for Petrosino's death.

The New York police are much interested in the Ohio arrests and say that the captures will lead to startling disclosures.

A sentence of eighteen months in a federal prison—at either Atlanta, Georgia, or Fort Leavenworth, Kansas—is the heaviest term that can be given any of the "Black Handers" arrested by the postal authorities. Either they must be charged with unlawfully using the mails to defraud or with murder, and since no murder charges have been made as yet, the eighteen months term seems about the only one to fit their cases.

Judge Sater, of Columbus, recently had in Cincinnati a case in which a man threatened the life of another man and said that if he committed suicide he would kill his wife unless he was given a large sum of money. When Judge Sater looked up the sentence he was surprised and told Congressman Taylor that he ought to have the law changed.

There is a lull today in the work of the government officers at Columbus in arresting suspected persons, but all interested were busy throughout the day securing translations of the letters and documents already secured.

No more arrests are expected during the day. The details of evidence will not be made public until the cases come up for trial.

Following the rounding up by the police and federal authorities in Ohio of a dozen alleged ringleaders in countrywide operations in the Black Hand, the Detroit police Thursday declared that in the person of Joseph Rosasco they believe they have one of the Michigan agents of the extortion association. They declare that the Italian's fruit and cigar stores here are only blinds. Rosasco was arrested on complaint of a fellow countryman, who charged that Rosasco had swindled him out of $155 in a crooked card game.

ELECTRICITY USED IN SURGERY NOW

A Remarkable Electrical Knife Which Is Better Than the Surgeon's Scalpel.

Surgery by electricity is what is alleged to be possible with a remarkable electric knife just devised by a firm of medical instrument manufacturers in Berlin. The knife is now undergoing exhaustive trials at the hands of Professor Bier, the head of the university surgical clinic, with the view of demonstrating its efficacy.

It is claimed for it that operations can be performed more quickly and that the healing process is more rapid than is the case where the ordinary scalpel has been used.

To one end of a six or eight inch glass rod, through the center of which passes a conducting wire, is fastened the blade without a cutting edge of a form similar to that of the commonly used surgical knives or like the simple probe. A high frequency current is employed, and when this is turned on a noiseless spark half an inch long appears from the point of the knife or probe. The spark incises the soft tissues with the same ease as a hot knife goes through butter without any apparent cauterization, but Professor Bier's experiments have so far shown that a more profuse hemorrhage ensues than by the use of the common knife.

It is further claimed for the instrument that it sterilizes as it cuts, requires no sharpening and can be easily cleaned.

Shot by Black Hand.

Chicago, May 8.—Another Black Hand crime was given to the police here to solve. Mariano Zagone, 47, a wealthy cigar manufacturer, was shot in the temple while sitting in a chair in his brother-in-law's saloon, and is dying at the Policlinic hospital. Money had been demanded of him, but he refused to comply.

FORM COMBINE ON INCOME TAX

Progressive Republicans and Democrats Agreed.

AMEND BAILEY'S AMENDMENT

Latest Plan Is to Make Rate Two Instead of Three Per Cent and Include Provision For Tax on Dividends of Corporations—Outcome of Move Uncertain, but Belief Prevails the Judiciary Committee Will Report on Matter at Next Session.

Washington, June 11.—Encouraged by what they interpret to be a weakening of the opposition to an income tax amendment, another move to form a coalition between the progressive Republicans and Democrats was begun in the senate.

The program outlined is that Senator Bailey shall present his income tax amendment and a motion to amend it is to be made by Mr. Cummins to reduce the proposed tax from 3 to 2 per cent, and to include a provision for a tax upon the income of corporations. It is said that Mr. Bailey will accept both of these changes and that all of those who favor an income tax will unite on the amended measure.

SENATOR BAILEY.
Leader in Movement to Collect Tax on Incomes.

Members of the finance committee deny that the tacit indorsement by certain Republican leaders of the proposed tax on dividends of corporations is intended as a compromise with the income tax advocates, but say that it is offered merely to satisfy those who believe that the import duties to be provided by the pending bill will be insufficient for the government needs.

The outcome is uncertain, but the indications point, it is said, to the reference of the whole subject to the judiciary committee with instructions to report at the next session.

PROGRESSIVES DEFEATED

Dolliver's Amendments Voted Down In Short Order.

Washington, June 11.—Time and time again Senator Dolliver and eight or nine other of the so-called progressive Republicans went down to defeat in their efforts to break the ranks of the Aldrich forces on the wool schedule of the tariff bill. The Iowa senator occupied the floor the greater part of the day and offered numerous amendments looking to the reduction of the finance committee rates, but in each instance the amendments were voted down and the committee sustained.

The first of Mr. Dolliver's suggestions had for its object the confining to the wool in them the duty on so-called yarns which are only part wool, and after considerable spirited discussion, in which Messrs. Dolliver and Warren were the principal participants, the amendment was defeated by a vote of 31 to 43. In the course of the debate Mr. Warren contended that the object of this provision was to prevent the importation of cheap cloths, but this was met by a suggestion from Mr. Dolliver that there might be some people who would be benefited by having cheap cloths brought in from abroad. On this vote Mr. Dolliver was supported by Senators Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, LaFollette and Nelson, while Senator McEnery of Louisiana was the only Democratic senator who voted with the Republicans against the provision.

Aldrich Repudiates Suggestion.

One of Mr. Dolliver's amendments was identical in terms with a provision suggested by Mr. Aldrich as a part of the McKinley tariff bill of 1888, but the Rhode Island senator refused to accept it, saying that the conditions were entirely different now from what they were in those days

In the course of a discussion between Senators Aldrich and Owen of the duty on blankets, the fact was brought out that blankets pay at the rate of 180 per cent ad valorem. In this connection the chairman of the finance committee was given an opportunity to accept a general provision prohibiting any rates in the schedule above 100 per cent, but he declined to do so because, as he said, it might let in foreign wool manufacturers.

The debate throughout the day was good natured, and Mr. Dolliver discussed polka dots, corn plaster, home mottoes and kindred subjects with much humor. He seemed to have real feeling over the possible tears in the eyes of Irish potatoes.

MANAGERS AT WAR

Shubert and Fields Are Ejected From Ziegfeld's Theater.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 11.—Considerable excitement was caused in the Apollo theater when Lee Shubert, Lew Fields and Mrs. Fields were ordered from the theater. The trio had intended to witness the performance now playing at the house, but were ordered out, first, it is said, by Florenz Ziegfeld. Upon their refusal to leave, the house officer was called upon and a threat to use force made.

Finally, after the curtain had been held down for 10 minutes, the party left the theater. Mr. Ziegfeld explained that the action was in retaliation for the refusal to allow him in a Shubert theater. Mr. Shubert threatens to bring suit for his ejection.

GIVE "REBEL YELL" FOR GENERAL GRANT

Confederates Warmly Welcome Son of Old Enemy.

Memphis, Tenn., June 11.—A frenzied demonstration of welcome by the men in gray for the son of the man who defeated them marked the final scene of the nineteenth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. It took place during the parade. In the reviewing stand stood General Frederick Dent Grant of the United States army. A cavalry division appeared and its commanding officer, old and grizzled, peered steadily at General Grant a moment. Then he turned in his saddle and yelled: "Come on, you kids; here's General Grant come to life again in his son."

With one of the old-time rebel yells, the division charged upon the stand and jostled one another for an opportunity to shake the hand of the son of their old-time enemy. From that moment every gray-clad veteran who could reach the stand rushed up to shake hands with General Grant. The stocky army officer's cold gray eyes filled with tears, and his shoulders shook with emotion as he murmured: "God bless you all, boys; God bless you."

EMPLOYED AS MEAT INSPECTOR

Writes Letter to Secretary Wilson In Which He Describes How Diseased Animals Are Slaughtered With Sanction of Inspectors and Filthy Practices Permitted In Sausage Department — Demands Investigation of Conditions at East St. Louis.

St. Louis, June 11.—J. F. Harms has returned to his home in Fremont, O., after 18 months' service as a government meat inspector in the East St. Louis packing houses. After resigning his job he wrote a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, demanding an investigation of the meat inspection system at the National stockyards. He states that he resigned because he would not tolerate the conditions he saw, and inspectors in charge of the bureau of animal industry are too lenient with the packers. He says no animus prompted his letter.

After asserting that "United States inspected and passed," as it appears on products of all the packing houses, is meaningless, because of the inadequacy of the inspection, Harms says in part in the letter:

"The inspection at the National Stockyards, Ill., is costing the people approximately $100,000 a year, and it is not actually worth $1 to them. For when the word is passed from the inspector in charge to the inspectors actually doing the work on the floors that they are getting too many condemned animals, and to change the grading, what does that mean? It means that the whole thing is rotten, and a farce. The packers are getting today from 70 to 80 per cent of what ought to be condemned and destroyed.

Dying Animals Slaughtered.

"Men holding good positions with the packers see and know these things and acknowledge they were wrong. I have seen animals in a dying condition dragged into the killing beds and marked 'U. S. inspected and passed.'

"Some of the filthiest things imaginable are packed in the sausage departments, such as using bladders for casings without thorough washing or cleaning, the use of filthy tripe in sausage, the use of slimy hog stomachs for casings or containers, the using of meats that have fallen on the floor and are taken up and used without any pretense of cleaning.

"These are all permitted by those in charge. If an inspector calls their attention to any of the wrongs he is told as I was, that the people who eat such stuff are too lazy to prepare anything for themselves, and ought to have such stuff.

"I will give you another instance that happened elsewhere. The meat inspector in the department held some 6,000 or 7,000 pounds of cured meats for being sour, and, mind you, four or five other inspectors were called in, and they all pronounced the meat sour. Your Mr. Meadows released it to the packer."
